The Day the POWs Came Home

BY RICHARD DAW

FT. Bragg, N.C. (AP) — Fellow Special Forces soldiers shouted "Welcome home" and embraced S. Sgt. James E. Jackson Monday night as he and two other U.S. Army sergeants returned to the United States after years of captivity by the Viet Cong.

The cheer for Jackson came from a trio of his comrades as he stepped off a military plane that returned him and M. Sgt. Daniel Lee Pitzer of Spring Lake, N.C., to Ft. Bragg.

Walked Unsteadily

Pitzer walked unsteadily and laid down on an ambulance stretcher. An Army official said he had a serious vitamin deficiency.

The third prisoner of war released in Cambodia Saturday

M. Sgt. Edward R. Johnson of Seaside, Calif., was removed from the plane in a stretcher at Washington, D.C., and taken to Walter Reed Army Hospital. He was reported suffering from dysentery and malnutrition.

The three sergeants were accompanied as far as New York by Thomas Hayden, a Newark, N.J., writer who brought them out of Cambodia. Hayden is a member of an American peace committee that also includes Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Dr. Benjamin Spock and singer Joan Baez.

King said the release was a gesture of goodwill toward American Negroes. Jackson and Johnson are Negroes.

"We appealed to the humanitarian instincts of the North Vietnamese," King said, adding that the committee hopes to aid

Embraced and Slapped

Jackson smiled broadly, as three fellow Green Berets embraced him and slapped him on the back on his arrival at Ft. Bragg. Jackson, Pitzer and Johnson all received their Special Forces training at Bragg.

Jackson accepted a cigarette but declined to answer questions about his captivity.

"It's been a long trip and I'm glad to be home," Jackson said. "The treatment on the trip has been A-No. 1."

Jackson's mother said her son "had the training (as a Green Beret) to fake a brainwashing job just to win his release." His father, a bus driver and mechanic, expressed confidence that his son would receive "all the care he needs" in U.S. military hospitals. Jackson's parents live in Talcott, W.Va.

At Ft. Bragg, Jackson's jubilation contrasted sharply with Pitzer, who walked down the plane's ramp with a halting step, looking drawn and pale. He spoke to no one and stretched out on a bed in the ambulance for the short trip to Womack Army Hospital on the Ft. Bragg post. His wife was waiting there but newsmen were barred from observing their reunion.

Earlier in the evening when Pitzer disembarked from a Pan American flight to Kennedy Airport in New York City, he had said: "I'm very glad to be at home. I'm looking forward to seeing my family."

The three sergeants had been kept under wraps in Cambodia after the news conference announcing their release Saturday. They arrived in Beirut aboard a Czechoslovak airliner Sunday and then flown to Rome and Paris before landing in New York.

Army officials said Jackson

One POW Since 1963

Jackson, captured on July 5, 1967, had spent less time in the Viet Cong's hands than the others. Pitzer was captured in October, 1963, and Johnson had been a prisoner since 1964.

Col. E. Thomas, commanding officer of Womack hospital, examined Pitzer and Jackson briefly aboard the plane and said that Pitzer "from the looks of his skin has a serious vitamin deficiency."

Army hospitals said they did not know how long Pitzer and Jackson might be hospitalized at Ft. Bragg. They were to be given thorough physical and mental examinations.

Officials also would not say when details of the trio's captivity and release would be made public or when newsmen would be allowed to talk with them.

U.S. General Killed In Vietnam Crash

SAIGON (AP)—The United States lost its second general in the Vietnam War today. Maj. Gen. Bruno A. Hochmuth, 56, commander of the 3rd Marine Division, was killed in a helicopter explosion and crash north of Hue. Four men died with him.

The crash came little more than four months after Maj. Gen. William J. Crumm of the U.S. Air Force died in a collision of two B52 bombers over the South China Sea while en route to a Communist target in South Vietnam. Five men were lost with Crumm, 48, in that accident July 6. He headed the Strategic Air Command's 3rd Air Division on Guam.

Copters Hit Hard

The U.S. Command also announced that Communist gunners shot down two American helicopters and damaged five more Monday in fighting along the coastal lowlands 365 miles northeast of Saigon. But it was not known whether Hochmuth's death was due to enemy action.

The general, a lantern-jawed Texan who took command of the 3rd Division last March, was on an inspection trip. The pilot of another helicopter accompanying him said the general's craft was flying at about 1,000 feet when it appeared to explode in the air, broke in two and crashed on its back in a lake. There were no survivors. Two American pilots, the American crew chief and a Vietnamese interpreter also died in the crash.

U.S. military headquarters in Saigon said it was not believed there was any enemy fire in the area at the time, but officers at Marine headquarters in Da Nang said they did not rule out that possibility.

The flareup of fighting along the coastal lowlands coincided with a lull around Dak To, in the central highlands, after two weeks of hard battling there. Only occasional sniper and mortar fire were reported this morning after a fierce battle late Monday in which 10 paratroopers of the U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade were reported killed and another 33 wounded.

Pound Positions

Eight-engine B52 bombers pounded suspected Red positions 16 miles southwest of Dak To, dropping 150,000 pounds of bombs on a suspected base camp and staging area.

The U.S. helicopters came under heavy machine-gun and small arms fire Monday while lifting 450 men of the 1st Air Cavalry Division into a battle area 15 miles west of the provincial capital of Tam Ky. The U.S. Command said fighting tapered off after six hours with four Americans killed and 19 wounded. Communist casualties were not known.

Less than 25 miles to the south in the coastal lowlands, U.S. paratroopers of the 101st Airborne Division reported killing 20 Communist troops in a series of scattered clashes while suffering no casualties. The U.S. Army said 10 of the enemy dead were North Vietnamese Army regulars wearing green uniforms, indicating they might have recently come south.

The northeast monsoon weather one again cut heavily into U.S. air strikes against North Vietnam limiting U.S. planes to targets in the southern half of the country and 93 missions.

Drowning---$100,000 Claim

By HUGH REYNOLDS

The city of Kingston was served with a $100,000 claim at last night's Common Council meeting for negligence in the death of a four-year old boy who drowned after the car he was a passenger in rolled into Rondout Creek from a parking lot at the foot of Canal Street.

Father Asks Damages

The claimant was Gerald S. Smith of 62 Van Buren Street, who asked for damages in the death of his son, Gerald Jr. The notice states that Gerald Smith Jr., was a passenger in a car owned by Edward Singleton on the night of Sept. 23. The car was parked in the parking lot and rolled backwards into the Rondout Creek resulting in the death of the Smith child.

The claim stated that the city had allowed the barrier in front of the creek to fall into a state of disrepair which had existed for some time. It also stated that there were no warning signs. Attorneys for Smith are Richter and Werbalowsky of 86 John Street.

The claim has been referred to city corporation counsel Aaron E. Klein who told The Freeman last night that the city will refer the suit to its insurance company.

Veto Beaten

In other action, Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan's veto of the 25-year retirement plan for city police and firemen was overridden by a 12-0 vote. Alderman James Howard, 10th Ward Democrat, being absent. The motion to override the veto was made by Edward Norton (D-Seventh Ward). It was preceded by a letter from Garraghan recommending the overriding of his veto.

The action was not without discussion, however. John Machione (R-12th Ward) took the floor and inquired as to the city's cost of the plan. Said Machione, "I voted for this last time and was led to believe it would cost $12,000. Just how much will it cost?"

Machione was informed by City Clerk Thomas R. Lyle that the approximate cost to the city would be $17,800. Last night the aldermen received copies of a codification books of all city codes and ordinances. A. Ross Kitt, president of General Code Publishers, compilers of the book, was in attendance and explained the book to the aldermen. The book contains 786 pages and was compiled at a cost of $14,000 to the city.

Called Major Step

Said Kitt of the book, "The Code of the City of Kingston represents a major step in putting before the citizens of the city a complete body of law. Public service is the primary reason for this ordinance codification project and as such will continue to be kept up to date through a supplementation program whereby all ordinances enacted by the Council will be integrated with the code."

The book, which will sell for $50, is not yet completed. Aldermen will review last night's preliminary copy and meet with the publishers to work on the final copy.

Alderman Emilio Primo Jr. (D-Fourth Ward) started a lively discussion when he introduced a resolution asking for an investigation of alleged Hudson Cement Plant quarry operations outside their commercial zoning area on Ulster Street Extension.

Asks Investigating Group
Primo said he had contacted City Engineer Thomas Wickman Oct. 24 concerning complaints that the cement plant was blasting in a residential area. Primo said Wickman investigated and found the blasting operations to be 150 feet within the Ulster Street Extension residential area.

The Fourth Ward alderman then called for an investigative group consisting of the corporation council, members of the Laws and Rules Committee and the city engineer.

The vote went in favor of the resolution until it got to Clifford Sinsabaugh (D-Fifth Ward). In voting against the resolution Sinsabaugh said a dangerous precedent was being set by the council. He claimed that Wickman was duly qualified to ascertain if the cement plant was operating outside of its zone and no resolution for investigation was needed by the council. He said that if Primo's resolution was accepted and passed then in the future every time a law was broken in the city it would take a Common Council resolution to enforce it. Alderman William Davis (D-13th Ward) voted with Sinsabaugh. The final tally was 10-2.

Another Blast

The subject of blasting came up later, this time from Peter Mancuso (D-Eighth Ward), who said he had received numerous complaints from his constituents on damage caused by blasting by the Callanan (Con. on Page 6, Col. 5)

From Encouragement to Ridicule

Joe's Day-After Reaction

Reaction, ranging from encouragement to ridicule of Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick's announced candidacy for the U. S. Senate, is rolling in from all quarters, Democrat and Republican.

Support, in the form of serious consideration but not necessarily commitment, has been voiced by the State Democratic chairman John J. Burns who said, "I believe Congressman Resnick would make an excellent senator."

Serious Thought Given

It also came from two Democrats, who are thought themselves to be interested in a senatorial seat.

Uptate Congressman Samuel S. Stratton said he would give serious thought to Resnick's candidacy and congratulated him on his courage in making support of the Vietnam War his campaign issue.

Morris Abram, New York lawyer, also thought to be pushing for the nomination for Resnick's service in Congress. Senator Robert F. Kennedy too, echoed Abrams statement although earlier this week he termed the race for the seat now held by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, a wide open affair.

"I have made no commitments to anyone and there are no favorites," he stated in an interview.

Sen. Javits, whom Resnick dubs a "fluttering dove" on the Vietnam War issue, said yesterday that he would not want to comment on internal Democrat Party affairs.

On the other side of the fence are West Side Manhattan District representatives whose area is strongly opposed to President Johnson's handling of the Vietnam War. Congressman William F. Ryan, Assemblyman Jerome Kretschmer and Councilman Theodore S. Weiss, all ridiculed Resnick's candidacy.

Just yesterday, in a New York City press conference, Rep. Resnick challenged the so-called "peace people" of the Democratic party to present their own candidate.

Dem Cheerleaders

He said that two weeks ago he attended a West Side Democratic Club forum at which he heard boos and hisses for President Johnson and loud cheers at the mention of the names of Fidel Castro, Ho Chi Minh and Mao Tse Tung. "And who were the cheerleaders?" he asked. "Democratic leaders—city and state office holders—from that section of Manhattan." He said he didn't think this group represents the views of the Democrats or the people of the state.

Rep. Resnick, although the first to announce his candidacy to oppose Javits, will probably not be the last. "Peace" candidates mentioned for the nomination include Congressman John G. Dow also of Grand View, N. Y., Congressman Ryan and former city councilman Paul O'Dwyer.

Interest in the nomination is also thought to be coming from former Mayor Robert Wagner, whom Javits defeated in the senatorial race of 1956; Sol Linowitz, ambassador to Organization of American States, and Reps. Otis Pike of Riverhead and Richard L. Ottinger of Pleasantville.

Linowitz has been mentioned as a possible choice of Sen. Kennedy, whom a good many Democrats feel will have the final say at the Democratic State Convention next spring. Resnick, if he fails to get the nod at the convention, says he will run in a primary.

That Rhinebeck Fund Before Voters Today

By LYNN MULVANEY

Rhinebeck School District voters go to the polls today for the fourth time this year to vote on a budget for what is left of the 1967-68 school year. Polls are open from 2 to 9 p. m.

Three times, since June, voters have turned down various proposals. The fourth, with which they are faced today, offers a choice of approving the austerity budget under which the school system now operates plus four additional items, each to be voted separately.

If all four items are favored it will mean a tax increase of $1.26 per thousand dollars of assessed valuation for Rhinebeck residents. By voting for the austerity budget, as a regular budget, voters would be lifting the ban on certain service limitations imposed by the state and the school building will once again be open to use by students for extra-curricular activities.

The four items offered would restore some additional services with which the system has been doing without such as some bus transportation, cafeteria facilities, textbooks and athletics.

The ballot points out that restoration of transportation would call for an expenditure of $18,393, instructional services, $33,784.77; cafeteria, $800 and operation and maintenance of plant, $1,664.50.

Voters rejected the first proposed school budget of $1,400,694 and turned down the second two weeks later for $1,367,345. Either of the budgets would have given residents a tax hike.

The amount of the budget voted upon in the third referendum was exactly the same as the second. It too, went down to defeat.

Following the third vote, the school board decided to wait for a mandate from the people rather than suggest action at that time.

The mandate came, in the form of a petition, containing 709 signatures. Close to 100 persons attended the meeting at which the petition was submitted to the board, feeling sentiment was running strong for another vote, set today, Nov. 14 as a referendum date.

During the past several weeks, both the board and a citizen's group headed by Richard May, have been conducting a program of information for the voter. Question boxes were placed at business establishments and answers were given through the news media.

Today's petition calls for an increase of $54,641.50 to the austerity budget of $1,300,677.61 although the actual "dollar increase" will be $49,892.27 because the proposal is being voted so late in the year and projected expenses have not occurred. Any unspent balance may be added to the credit side of next year's budget.

The Rhinebeck Teachers Association, on Sept. 28 passed a resolution in which it stated "... If an item by item presentation is made and the precedent established, the student's school program would always be uncertain, always subject to change. Each year's budget would be, in effect, a gamble for the student body."

"It is our opinion that the school would be far better off enduring a year of 'austerity' than it would be having to face, year after year, the hazardous process of piecemeal selection by the public."

SANTOROSKY FUND REPORT—Paul H. Jordan Jr., Dr. George Erbstein, president and Lawrence A. Quilty, chairman of the board go over latest reports on the Pfc. Michael Santorosky Memorial Scholarship Fund. A sum of $8,343.92 has been collected to date with $1,543.30 in pledges still outstanding. The money is deposited in local banks and will remain there until the entire committee meets to decide distribution procedure. Reports were prepared by Robert B. O'Reilly. Others on the committee are Mrs. Frank Matthews, Charles Green, George Heppner, Harry Thayer. (Freeman photo by Haines)

New Cost Formula Needed

A second public hearing to discuss a proposed sewer district in the Town of Ulster will be conducted at a later date before any final action is taken on the project which would include that area from the Kingston City line north to Leggs Mills Road.

Prior to a public hearing Monday night at the Lake Katrine Grange Hall, which was attended by about 100 persons, notice was received from Albany revealing that a sewer district could not be adopted under a strictly ad valorem basis, according to Town Supervisor Thaddeus Musialkiewicz.

The Town Board has set up the proposed district with the future in mind for expansion in a northerly section of the town. Under the plans prepared by the engineers the project would have been instituted under ad valorem tax structure.

Because of the notification from the State Bureau of Audit and Control and the State Comptroller's office noting that a sewer district could not be adopted on a strictly ad valorem basis, Supervisor Musialkiewicz said today it will be necessary for the engineers to work on a new formula for the project.

It was reported that 62 persons at last night's hearing spoke on the details of the proposal, with 49 agreeing that there is a need for a sewer district in the town. Some of those who took the floor noted the need for a more accurate report of costs to the homeowners. Thirteen residents were not in favor of the sewer district.

The supervisor said that the Town Board received a letter yesterday afternoon from the International Business Machines Corp., stating their position on the proposal. It was noted that the IBM constitutes about 44 per cent of assessed valuation within the proposed sewer district.

The IBM communication informed the Town Board it is not opposed to the establishment of a sewer district, but the corporation asked that more consideration be given to the methods of assessment and consideration of the IBM sewage waste facility.

Musialkiewicz said the Town Board and engineers will review the information received last night from residents and a new formula will be worked out before another date is set for a second public hearing on the proposed district. At that hearing the board will present to the residents details of the new formula and give a more accurate report setting forth figures of the costs to the homeowners.

The need for a sewer district was emphasized by many residents who took the floor last night to express their views, but the distribution of costs was questioned by some.

Senate Prohibits Federal Banks From Selling NY Lottery Tickets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The lagging New York State lottery has suffered another setback with Senate passage of a bill prohibiting federally insured banks from selling lottery tickets.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., attempted to kill the measure Monday by returning it to the Banking Committee. His move was rejected, 56-17, and the bill was passed by voice vote.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., was not in the chamber when the vote was taken.

The bill was sent to conference with the House, which passed its version 271-111 last July.

Corrective Action Possible
In Albany, N.Y., State Tax Commissioner Joseph H. Murphy deplored Senate passage of the bill, saying that, if it is enacted, the state would lose 70 per cent of its lottery ticket outlets.

He noted, however, that the bill in its present form would not take effect until April 1968, affording Gov. Rockefeller and the Legislature "an opportunity to take such corrective action as they deem desirable."

The Senate adopted amendments which would allow banks and federally insured savings and loan associations to engage in record-keeping activities and other custodial functions for state lotteries.

For example, they could accept the proceeds of the ticket sales, distribute the tickets to sales agents, and make payments to the winner.

Sen. William Proxmire, who was the floor manager of the bill, said that the lottery was "about as unattractive — if you know the facts on it — as any gambling offer that I can imagine."

The odds against winning the $100,000 top prize are a million to one, he said, while the odds against capturing any prize are 4,167 to one.

A New Yorker could go to Nevada or Puerto Rico or to a race track and "get a much better deal," Proxmire said, noting that only 30 per cent of the money received is paid out in prizes. The pay off for nearly all other forms of gambling, he said, will run between 80 and 90 per cent.

Proxmire said that it is proper for New York, New Hampshire or other states to conduct lotteries, but that it is wrong to use thrift institutions such as banks as the outlets for the tickets.

Prove Inefficient
Banks have proven an inefficient way to sell the tickets, he said, because the lottery, so far, has produced only about 17 per cent of the revenues originally estimated. New York could turn to state and local government offices to sell the tickets, he said.

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., said that "it is immoral to encourage gambling and the worst place to do it is in a bank."

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., head of the Senate Ethics Committee, said the position of banks in the community "does not comport with promoting a lottery."

Aware of Stipulations
Javits, in defending the lottery, said the state makes clear to the ticket buyers that $300,000 of each $1 million collected is paid out in prizes. New Yorkers are fully aware of this, he said, and "if there is one thing the people of the United States understand, it is betting odds."

By law, 55 per cent of the lottery proceeds go for education, he said.

The Legislature approved such a system by big majorities and voters endorsed it by a three-to-two majority in a statewide referendum.

NAACP Meet

Kingston Employment Problems Aired

Problems of employment for the Kingston Negro community were thrashed over at a meeting of the Ulster County Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People Monday night at the New Central Baptist Church.

Evan Davis, head of Kingston Human Relations Committee, was invited to tell employment progress to date. Davis contended that many businesses and stores in the area had been contacted with success.

He cited education as the clue to continued success noting that it was a slow process.

The Rev. P. N. Sanders Jr., pastor of the host church, who has worked closely with Davis on employment and placement, expressed the opinion that there could be improvement in some business areas of the community. He said the employment situation was the main issue in resolving Negro problems.

Although discussion of employment was the main purpose of the meeting, several other areas of discontent were brought into the meeting which grew heated at times.

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The leftist-dominated national council of President Eduardo Frei's Christian Democratic Party endorsed a modified forced savings proposal today and apparently headed off a mass cabinet resignation.

Interior Minister Bernardo Leighton and nine other cabinet ministers had threatened to quit if the plan did not get the council's backing. The council's modification of the plan proposed by Frei seemed to be an attempt to pacify leftists who claimed the program hit workers too hard and higher income groups and foreign firms not enough.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, NOVEMBER 14, 1967

Flu Shot Time

Federal public health officials warned last summer and again last month that outbreaks of influenza could be expected in January and February in some parts of the country, including areas in the East.

Dr. H. Bruce Dull, assistant director of the National Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, said that vaccine supplies might be in relatively short supply in some parts of the country, but that the supply would begin to catch up with the demand within weeks.

Whether or not to take the shots, and how many and at what intervals is a decision for the family doctor. However, at least those who would suffer the most if they develop the disease—the elderly, the institutionalized and persons with chronic heart or lung disease—should receive flu shots as a necessary precaution.

Local health officers point out that in some areas the level of natural immunization was high because of repeated exposure to the A-2 or Asian strain of influenza since the first major outbreak 10 years ago. However, influenza vaccines are changed every year to meet predictions of future outbreaks and these are the shots to take now as needed.

There is no way definitely to eliminate the possibility of an influenza epidemic. That is why it is wise to let your doctor decide if you need a shot.

Jobless Rise Again

For the second successive month, the unemployment rate rose in October. While Administration officials refused to relate the rise to the economy as a whole, they could not refute the fact that it provided the first strong economic argument against the proposed 10 per cent tax surcharge. It weakened the argument that the economy faced a period of excessive and inflationary expansion.

The increase in the jobless rate rose from 3.8 per cent in August to 4.1 per cent in September and 4.3 per cent in October. It reflected a worsening job picture for adult men, teenagers and Negroes. It was not that there were less jobs—the number of jobs available grew by 5,000 last month—there was an increase of 200,000 persons looking for work.

The number at work in October was 75,181,000, practically the same as September. Unemployed numbered 2,591,000—of whom 1,231,000 were adult women, 893,000 adult men and 828,000 teenagers. Of the jobless, Negroes numbered 647,000.

It is this core of unemployed, who need education and training and jobs to fill, that is the key to much of the social and economic ills of the country. If the Administration will forget all the trimmings to its anti-poverty program and concentrate on training and getting jobs for these people, most of the rest of its troubles will go away.

Poverty Children

An international conference called by the Citizens Committee for Children was told that 19 million children are living in poverty or near poverty in the United States.

The conference was held in Warrenton, Va. The report was prepared by a staff of researchers of the Social Security Administration in Washington. It showed that one fourth of the nation's children live in or near dire poverty and one-sixth of all children under 18 in the country live below a poverty level for a person for food in an average four-person family.

The report was the basis on which the economists, sociologists, federal, state and local officials and foreign representatives at the conference practically unanimously supported the urgent need for some form of family or children's allowance program to combat poverty here.

However, there are provisions both for family and children under present anti-poverty programs. Any family allowances should be replacements not supplements to such programs. They should help to stimulate self-reliance, not greater dependence on government handouts.

The need seems great because we have helped to create it by years of doles. The time has come to educate and train coming generations to support themselves, not add to the welfare rolls.

The American Commuters Association proposal for an all-purpose commuters terminal in North Bergen, N. J., would let them park their cars there, then zip to Penn Station in 2½ minutes for 10 cents. It would also reduce the traffic congestion in the city and in tunnels and bridges.

Canada's unemployment surge to 4.7 per cent last month paralleled the October rise in joblessness here to 4.3 per cent. The Canadian Government had planned to check inflation by holding the line in next year's budget and possibly raising taxes. Now it may need to stimulate, not restrict, the economy. Sounds as if we had a lot in common with our neighbors.

"Now That You're Up, Sir,
What Shall We Do About These?"

David Lawrence Says

Big Social Security Increase Will Pass

WASHINGTON — This is to be "Social Security" week. The Senate is expected to start consideration of a bill, just recommended by its finance committee, which will mean some of the biggest increases in pension and other social security benefits ever granted. Approximately 24,000,000 elderly persons will be the immediate beneficiaries. The House has already passed a measure which is not quite so generous, but undoubtedly the Senate bill will pass next week and prevail in conference, as backed by the administration.

Many millions of other citizens will, of course, have to pay the cost, and will find their "take-home" pay diminished. The Democrats thoughtfully postponed the hikes in the payroll taxes so that they will not take effect for two thirds of the workers covered until after the November 1968 elections. Then the real bite will come, and further increases in these taxes will be spread over the years subsequent to 1968. Within five years later, workers and employers together will be paying to Social Security a total of 11.3 per cent of an employee's wages up to 10,800 dollars per year.

Under the Senate Bill, a retired worker would find his check increased from 44 dollars to 70 dollars a month as a minimum, but most benefits would be raised by about 15 per cent. For persons who have already retired, the maximum payments would rise from 142 dollars to 163 dollars a month. But for higher-paid workers who retire in future years, the top benefit would be about 288 dollars a month for one person and 393 dollars for a retired husband and wife.

These increases in benefits would come into operation early next year, with the first checks in higher amounts being received in April. Thus, while the retired folks will get a big slice of the bonanza right away, most taxpayers will not have to begin to contribute to the government the bigger deductions on their wages until 1969.

In 1968, the tax rate itself will not be increased, but the maximum amount of "covered earnings" on which the tax applies would go from 6,600 dollars per year to 8,000 dollars. These larger deductions will affect only about one third of the taxpayers—the higher-paid group. The top figured will go to 8,000 dollars in 1969 and up to 10,800 dollars in 1972.

The present tax rate of 4.4 per cent each for employee and employer would remain unchanged in 1968, but would rise to 4.8 in 1969 and in quick steps thereafter to 5.65 per cent starting in 1973. For self-employed persons, the rate would rise on the same schedule from the current 6.4 per cent to 7.65 per cent in 1973.

All this means that the annual contributions by workers and employers would move up from 28.5 billion dollars this year to 31.2 billion in 1968, and to 36.6 billion in 1969. Three years later—in 1972—workers and their employers would be paying into Social Security 45.9 billion dollars a year, and there would be some additional increases in the subsequent seven years.

Some other changes in benefits are to be made under the Senate bill. Retired workers are to be permitted to earn up to 1,680 dollars in the year 1968 and up to 2,000 dollars in 1969 and thereafter, without losing any of the regular benefits. The limit now is 1,500 dollars a year. Another modification is planned to permit persons to retire at 60, instead of having to wait until the age of 62 to receive some benefits. Disability retirement would be made available to more individuals, regardless of age.

What will be the economic effect as 3.6 billion dollars in additional Social Security payments are poured into the economy in 1968 and 2.4 billion more in 1969? It could be inflationary. The government on the other hand, will be diminishing the wages and salaries of the non-retired citizens by 2.7 billion dollars in 1968 and 5.4 billion in 1969.

As so often happens, however, when "take-home" pay is reduced, the labor unions can be expected to demand higher and higher wage rates to make up for the larger sums deducted for Social Security taxes. But most of this is to happen after the 1968 elections so the full effect will not be felt till the next year.

McCarthy Seen as Threat To Johnson's Renomination

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — There is no question Democratic leaders are regarding Minnesota Sen. Eugene McCarthy as a more realistic threat to President Johnson's orderly renomination in 1968 than Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York has ever been.

Believable, Kennedy has told this reporter and many others again and again that he had no intention of becoming involved in the 1968 race in any way except as a full supporter of the President's renomination and re-election.

Those who have been engaged in efforts to draft him or otherwise enlist him, mostly as a prop to their anti-Vietnam war objectives, have been doomed from the start to a fruitless enterprise. McCarthy is another story. He obviously cherishes the limelight and the national scene.

At the height of his state party's bitter internal warfare last year over efforts to dump the then-incumbent Gov. Karl Rolvaag, observers discovered McCarthy on the scene but aloof from the battle, discussing on some relative obscure aspect of foreign affairs.

His credentials with Democratic arch-liberals are reasonably secure. He placed their favorite, Adlai Stevenson, in nomination at Los Angeles in 1960. Earlier, backing his fellow Minnesotan, Hubert Humphrey, in the Wisconsin primary, McCarthy went beyond the call of duty in assaults on John F. Kennedy, whom the liberals eyed suspiciously.

McCarthy wanted the vice presidential nomination with Johnson in 1964, when it was still no disgrace, in the liberals' view, to be associated with the President. The senator was pushed aside, of course, for Humphrey.

The crushing of McCarthy's 1964 hopes left him a free agent, and he has since gained fresh stature with party liberals by attacking the President consistently on Vietnam.

But He Will Run

Right now he appears to be increasing his exposure to dissident Democratic groups, and the betting is he will decide to make a run against Johnson next year—with his name entered perhaps in such primaries as New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Wisconsin, Oregon and California.

War critics eager to "get" the President suddenly see McCarthy as providing the missing focus for their endeavors.

Very possibly the Minnesota could cause Johnson serious embarrassment, either by beating him in some primaries and corraling convention delegates, or by coming close enough to suggest that huge opposition exists.

But it has to be remembered that in 1964 the Democrats had 2,316 delegate votes overall. The 1968 total is unlikely to be much different. Only the wildest dreamers in the anti-war camp can imagine that McCarthy would come within several miles of the 1,159 votes needed to nominate.

Johnson adversaries have been stressing lately that the President is losing more and more support among the young, the academic community and religious leaders. New opinion polls underscore his slide among young people.

But in 1964 only 24 per cent of actual voters were 35 years of age and under, and that figure is expected to rise no more than a point or two in 1968. The young are great under-voters.

The seasoned Democratic leaders, who will be strongly influencing the choice of convention delegates in most states, understands well where the actual votes are. A flurry by McCarthy in some primary states might shake them, but not enough to shatter their traditional support of an incumbent president.

Drew Pearson Says House Leadership Blamed Far Antipoverty Tie-Up

WASHINGTON — Nearly five months after money was supposed to be voted for a new antipoverty program, that money, as of last week, had not been voted. And for a time antipoverty workers were working without salary.

Chief reason for this inexcusable delay was the well known opposition of Republican leaders to the antipoverty program. Not well known is another reason: The ineptness of Democratic leadership in the House of Representatives.

Here is the backstage story of what happened last week. On Monday, guest, Gray John McCormack, D-Mass., the beloved but fumbling Speaker, scheduled a full-dress debate and a vote on the antipoverty bill.

However, Speaker McCormack also placed 21 other bills on the agenda ahead of the antipoverty vote. They included such chicken-feed measures as the transfer of three plots of land owned by the federal government in Lander, Wyo., the naming of a federal office building in Detroit, the extension of Secret Service protection to Mrs. Kennedy and her children, and the cancellation of construction costs at the Fort Peck Indian Reservation.

Debate on these picayunish bills lasted six hours. By that time it was too late to reach a vote on antipoverty. Next day, Jack Garner, former Speaker and former Vice President died, and the House suspended deliberations out of respect.

GOP Reversal
Next day, debate continued. Tremendous support for the OEO program began to roll up from mayors all over the country.

Mayor William Walsh of Syracuse, Mayor Frank Lamb of Rochester, Mayor Louie Welch of Houston, Mayor Arthur Naftalin of Minneapolis—all registered their support. GOP opposition began to boomerang. Said Sen. Ed Brooke of Massachusetts, himself a Republican: "It's a disgrace what the Republican party has been trying to do to this bill."

Another Republican, Mrs. Frances Bolton of Cleveland, who had never voted for the antipoverty program, made a moving speech for its support. Just as momentum for the bill was increasing, Congress recessed for the Veterans Day holiday weekend.

Sargent Shriver commented bitterly to his staff: "The poor always get the dirty end of the stick. Now people who work for the poor also get the dirty end of the stick."

Finally Congress relented on at least one point. It voted a stop-gap measure to pay salaries to antipoverty. Peace Corps and foreign aid workers.

But if Speaker McCormack had not scheduled the 21 chicken-feed bills in advance of the antipoverty debate a week ago Monday, the record of delay might have been different.

Here are some of the bills which he put ahead of antipoverty:

Plenty of Nothing

1. Fort Peck Indian Reservation, Mont. — Canceled delinquent irrigation operation and maintenance charges of $461.40, owed by Indians; irrigation construction costs of $206,902.21, and construction costs of $118,266.64.

2. Landberg, Wyo., Land Transfer — Authorize the transfer of three plots of U. S. owned land in order to purchase other nearby land.

3. International Bridge at Pharr, Tex. — Authorized construction, maintenance and operation of a toll bridge across the Rio Grande.

4. Increase of Timber Survey Authorization — Amended Section 9 of the Act of May 22, 1928, relating to surveys of timber and other forest resources of the U. S.

5. Special Milk Program — Extended for three years special milk program for the armed forces and veterans' hospitals.

6. Accumulation of Leave — Authorize members of armed forces to accumulate more than 60 days leave when they serve longer than 120 days of continuous duty in a hostile fire area.

7. Federal Building — Naming federal office building, Detroit, Mich., in honor of the late Patrick V. McNamara.

8. Bus Taxation — Consenting to the entry of Ohio into a bus taxation proration agreement.

9. Simplified Armed Service Laws — Extends service of any member of an armed force for the duration of any war; Secretary of Defense may conduct intensive recruiting campaigns; limits insane, intoxicated, deserters, those convicted of a felony from being enlisted, etc.

10. Declared a portion of Bayou LaFourche, La., a non-navigable waterway.

11. Amended Section 319 of the Immigration and Nationality Act to permit naturalization for certain employees of U. S. non-profit organizations engaged in disseminating information which significantly promotes U. S. interest.

12. Extended protection of Mrs. Kennedy and children until March 1, 1969.

13. Allowed for transportation of house trailers and mobile dwellings of members of uniformed services.

14. Amending Highway Safety Act of 1966 — To establish National Highway Safety Advisory Committee; to allow each member to hold office for three years.

15. Small — Boat Harbor at Manele Bay, Lanai, Hawaii — Government to assume costs of additional work, $172,000, provided that local interests contribute $124,845.

These were the problems placed ahead of the problem of poverty in the United States.

LBJ Hit With Criticism While Attending Church

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (NAP) — It was President Johnson who must have felt baffled.

But he was in the wrong place to do anything about it, sitting in the pew of George Washington used in an Episcopal church in Williamsburg, Va. He could not very well get up and walk out. And he could not very well answer back.

All he could do was sit and listen. But when it was over he left at once without a smile.

He had just finished a 5,100-mile Veterans Day weekend trip, stopping at military camps from coast to coast, appealing to North Vietnam to talk peace and hitting at the critics of the war and the way he is handling it.

He is probably more sensitive to criticism than any president. With growing intensity he and his administration have been striking at the critics. This trip, most of it spent congratulating servicemen on their valor, was a platform.

"Vietnam is no academic question," he said at Ft. Benning, Ga. "It is not a topic for cocktail parties, office arguments, or debate from the comfort of distant sidelines."

Criticism in Church

It probably never occurred to him that at the very end of his journey he would be hit with criticism in a church while he was sitting there and by a clergyman who apparently hadn't kept up with what Johnson had said, or had ignored it.

The President finished his trip Saturday night at Williamsburg and Sunday morning took his family to the Bruton Parish Episcopal Church where the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Cotesworth Pinckney Lewis, was ready and waiting.

A parish spokesman explained later that while Dr. Lewis had prepared one sermon for Sunday's services, he put another one together when he heard Johnson would be present.

Since Johnson has been accused by his critics of not listening with the American people on the war in Vietnam, of creating a "credibility gap," it is easy to imagine his reaction when the minister got started.

Dr. Lewis said, "There is a rather general consensus that something is wrong in Vietnam...and we wonder if some logical, straightforward explanation might be given without endangering whatever military or political advantages we hold."

He cautioned against oversimplifying things by viewing the war as directed at monolithic communism. He said the complexities of the American involvement in the war are "baffling."

Johnson Baffled
But this is what must have baffled Johnson in turn.

McNamara Was Misleading

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Defense Secretary McNamara's announcement of Russia's orbiting "bomb" program was misleading in five respects:

1—McNamara said he is "not concerned." This statement does not mesh with the worried activity in U. S. military technical circles ever since Russian progress on the orbiting "bomb" was confirmed some time back. It is known by this reporter that indeed the Russian program has caused deep concern in the Pentagon, both among the military and civilian technical men.

2—McNamara suggested strongly that the new Russian orbiting warhead could not be accurate and therefore would be limited in its usefulness. This is a half truth. Such orbiting weapons can be made considerably more accurate than intercontinental ballistic missiles if allowed to orbit several times before firing.

3—McNamara suggested the major objective of the Russian orbiting "bombs" would be against U. S. manned bombers.

While no one can read the Russian mind, technical men suggests the major Moscow target would be whatever antiballistic missile systems the United States installs — thin or thick.

Quite possibly, depending on their sophistication, the Russian orbiting warheads could slip through currently planned types of U. S. ABM systems...thin or thick.

4—McNamara suggests Russian orbiting weapons would be limited for a considerable time to come to quite small payloads. He neglects to point out that the anticipated Russian payloads could nevertheless be three times as large as the payload of a Minuteman or Polaris missile.

5—McNamara spoke of over-the-horizon radar as the answer to Russian orbiting nuclear weapons.

The fact that a weapon was known to be orbiting would not help the defense, necessarily, if the ABM sensor system couldn't determine where the "bomb" was heading until too late, or if it headed in the last minute and headed in several directions.

The Russians could really confuse things by keeping a considerable number of orbiting platforms in operation continuously. All of these could be unarmed. Then at a crucial moment, the Russians could put up a batch of armed orbiting missiles calculated to look exactly like the unarmed "scientific" type. There are a number of ways, the scientists say, for the Russians to operate such an orbiting system in ways that could outmaneuver presently planned U. S. defensive measures.

However, there are provisions both for family and children under present anti-poverty programs. Any family allowances should be replacements not supplements to such programs. They should help to stimulate self-reliance, not greater dependence on government handouts.

The need seems great because we have helped to create it by years of doles. The time has come to educate and train coming generations to support themselves, not add to the welfare rolls.

The American Commuters Association proposal for an all-purpose commuters terminal in North Bergen, N. J., would let them park their cars there, then zip to Penn Station in 2½ minutes for 10 cents. It would also reduce the traffic congestion in the city and in tunnels and bridges.

Canada's unemployment surge to 4.7 per cent last month paralleled the October rise in joblessness here to 4.3 per cent. The Canadian Government had planned to check inflation by holding the line in next year's budget and possibly raising taxes. Now it may need to stimulate, not restrict, the economy. Sounds as if we had a lot in common with our neighbors.

What Shall We Do About These?"

David Lawrence Says

Big Social Security Increase Will Pass

WASHINGTON — This is to be "Social Security" week. The Senate is expected to start consideration of a bill, just recommended by its finance committee, which will mean some of the biggest increases in pension and other social security benefits ever granted. Approximately 24,000,000 elderly persons will be the immediate beneficiaries. The House has already passed a measure which isn't quite so generous, but undoubtedly the Senate bill will pass next week and prevail in conference, as backed by the administration.

Many millions of other citizens will, of course, have to pay the cost, and will find their "take-home" pay diminished. The Democrats thoughtfully postponed the hikes in the payroll taxes so that they will not take effect for two thirds of the workers covered until after the November 1968 elections. Then the real bite will come, and further increases in these taxes will be spread over the years subsequent to 1968.

Within five years later, workers and employers together will be paying to Social Security a total of 11.3 per cent of an employee's wages up to 10,800 dollars per year.

Under the Senate Bill, a retired worker would find his check increased from 44 dollars to 70 dollars a month as a minimum, but most benefits would be raised by about 15 per cent. For persons who have already retired, the maximum payments would rise from 142 dollars to 163 dollars a month. But for higher-paid workers who retire in future years, the top benefit would be about 288 dollars a month for one person and 393 dollars for a retired husband and wife.

These increases in benefits would come into operation early next year, with the first checks in higher amounts being received in April. Thus, while the retired folks will get a big slice of the bonanza right away, most taxpayers will not have to begin to contribute to the government the bigger deductions on their wages until 1969.

In 1968, the tax rate itself will not be increased, but the maximum amount of "covered earnings" on which the tax applies would go from 6,600 dollars per year to 8,000 dollars. These larger deductions will affect only about one third of the taxpayers — the higher-paid group. The top figure would rise to 8,000 dollars in 1969 and up to 10,800 dollars in 1972.

The present tax rate of 4.4 per cent each for employee and employer would remain unchanged in 1968, but would rise to 4.8 in 1969 and in quick steps thereafter to 5.65 per cent starting in 1973. For self-employed persons, the rate would rise on the same schedule from the current 6.4 per cent to 7.65 per cent in 1973.

All this means that the annual contributions by workers and employers would move up from 28.5 billion dollars this year to 31.2 billion in 1968, and to 36.6 billion in 1969.

Three years later — in 1972 — workers and their employers would be paying into Social Security 45.9 billion dollars a year, and there would be some additional increases in the subsequent seven years.

Some other changes in benefits are to be made under the Senate bill. Retired workers are to be permitted to earn up to 1,680 dollars in the year 1968 and up to 2,000 dollars in 1969 and thereafter, without losing any of the regular benefits. The limit now is 1,500 dollars a year. Another modification is planned to permit persons to retire at 60, instead of having to wait until the age of 62 to receive some benefits. Disability retirement would be made available to more individuals, regardless of age.

What will be the economic effect as 3.6 billion dollars in additional Social Security payments are poured into the economy in 1968 and 2.4 billion more in 1969? It could be inflationary. The government on the other hand, will be diminishing the wages and salaries of the non-retired citizens by 2.7 billion dollars in 1968 and 5.4 billion in 1969.

As so often happens, however, when "take-home" pay is reduced, the labor unions can be expected to demand higher and higher wage rates to make up for the larger sums deducted for Social Security taxes. But most of this is to happen after the 1968 elections so the full effect will not be felt till the next year.

Washington (NAP)—It was President Johnson who must have felt baffled. But he was in the wrong place to do anything about it, sitting in the very pew George Washington used in an Episcopal church in Williamsburg, Va. He could not very well get up and walk out. And he could not very well answer back.

All he could do was sit and listen. But when it was over he left at once without a smile.

He had just finished a 5,100-mile Veterans Day weekend trip, stopping at military camps from coast to coast, appealing to North Vietnam to talk peace and hitting at the critics of the war and the way he is handling it.

He is probably more sensitive to criticism than any president. With growing intensity he and his administration have been striking at the critics. This trip, most of it spent congratulating servicemen on their valor, was a platform.

"Vietnam is no academic question," he said at Ft. Benning, Ga. "It is not a topic for cocktail parties, office arguments, or debate from the comfort of distant sidelines."

LBJ Hit With Criticism While Attending Church

WASHINGTON (NAP)—It was President Johnson who must have felt baffled. But he was in the wrong place to do anything about it, sitting in the very pew George Washington used in an Episcopal church in Williamsburg, Va. He could not very well get up and walk out. And he could not very well answer back.

All he could do was sit and listen. But when it was over he left at once without a smile.

He had just finished a 5,100-mile Veterans Day weekend trip, stopping at military camps from coast to coast, appealing to North Vietnam to talk peace and hitting at the critics of the war and the way he is handling it.

He is probably more sensitive to criticism than any president. With growing intensity he and his administration have been striking at the critics. This trip, most of it spent congratulating servicemen on their valor, was a platform.

"Vietnam is no academic question," he said at Ft. Benning, Ga. "It is not a topic for cocktail parties, office arguments, or debate from the comfort of distant sidelines."

Criticism in Church

It probably never occurred to him that at the very end of his journey he would be hit with criticism in a church while he was sitting there and by a clergyman who apparently either hadn't kept up with what Johnson had said, or had ignored it.

The President finished his trip Saturday night at Williamsburg and Sunday morning took his family to the Bruton Parish Episcopal Church where the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Cotesworth Pinckney Lewis, was ready and waiting.

A parish spokesman explained later that while Dr. Lewis had prepared one sermon for Sunday's services, he put another one together when he heard Johnson would be present.

Since Johnson has been accused by his critics of not leveling with the American people on the war in Vietnam, of creating a "credibility gap," it is easy to imagine his reaction when the minister got started.

Dr. Lewis said, "There is a rather general consensus that something is wrong in Vietnam...and we wonder if some logical, straightforward explanation might be given without endangering whatever military or political advantages we hold."

"We cannot close our Christian consciences to consideration of the rightness of actions as they are reported to us, perhaps erroneously, perhaps for good cause of which we have not been apprised."

He cautioned against oversimplifying things by viewing the war as directed at monolithic communism. He said the complexities of the American involvement in the war are "baffling."

Johnson Baffled

But this is what must have baffled Johnson in turn.

On June 29 Johnson made a speech — which he probably thought was logical — explaining the basic reason why the United States was involved in the war and that reason was communism.

If the clergyman had read that speech then his statement — warning against oversimplifying things by viewing the war as directed at communism — can be interpreted as a rejection of Johnson's explanation.

If Dr. Lewis hasn't read the Johnson speech the most detailed in a long time — then he undertook to be critical without taking the trouble to be informed.

In September Johnson put it this way: "The key to all we have done is our own security." Every American president, he said, in time of crisis has to answer one question above all.

This is it: "Is the aggression a threat, not only to the immediate victim, but to the United States and to the peace and security of the world of which we are a part?"

Johnson's whole speech was built around that question. And he made it clear he thought unchecked Communist expansion in Southeast Asia was such a threat.

Still, there was one lesson for Johnson to learn from Dr. Lewis, although others have told him the same thing: He does not do enough public explaining about the war, even if in this case when he did the clergyman wasn't listening.

McNamara Was Misleading

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Defense Secretary McNamara's announcement of Russia's orbiting "bomb" program was misleading in five respects:

1—McNamara said he is "not concerned." This statement does not mesh with the worried activity in U. S. military technical circles ever since Russian progress on the orbiting "bomb" was confirmed some time back. It is known by this reporter that indeed the Russian program has caused deep concern in the Pentagon, both among the military and civilian technical men.

2—McNamara suggested strongly that the new Russian orbiting warhead could not be accurate and therefore would be limited in its usefulness. This is a half truth. Such orbiting weapons can be made considerably more accurate than intercontinental ballistic missiles if allowed to orbit several times before firing.

3—McNamara suggested the major objective of the Russian orbiting "bombs" would be against U. S. manned bombers.

While no one can read the Russian mind, technical men suggests the major Moscow target would be whatever antiballistic missile systems the United States installs — thin or thick.

Quite possibly, depending on their sophistication, the Russian orbiting warheads could slip through currently planned types of U. S. ABM systems.—thin or thick.

4—McNamara suggests Russian orbiting weapons would be limited to a considerable time to come to quite small payloads. He neglects to point out that the anticipated Russian payloads could nevertheless be three times as large as the payload of a Minuteman or Polaris missile.

5—McNamara spoke of over-the-horizon radar as the answer to Russian orbiting nuclear weapons.

The fact that a weapon was known to be orbiting would not help the defense, necessarily, if the ABM sensor system couldn't determine where the "bomb" was heading until too late, or if it divided at the last minute and headed in several directions.

The Russians could really confuse things by keeping a considerable number of orbiting platforms in operation continuously. All of these could be unarmed. Then at a crucial moment, the Russians could put up a batch of armed orbiting missiles calculated to look exactly like the unarmed "scientific" type. There are a number of ways, the scientists say, for the Russians to operate such an orbiting system in ways that could outmaneuver presently planned U. S. defensive measures.

McCarthy Seen as Threat To Johnson's Renomination

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—There is no question Democratic leaders are regarding Minnesota Sen. Eugene McCarthy as a more realistic threat to President Johnson's orderly renomination in 1968 than Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York has ever been.

Believably, Kennedy has told this reporter and many others again and again that he had no intention of becoming involved in the 1968 race in any way except as a full supporter of the President's renomination and re-election.

Those who have been engaged in efforts to draft him or otherwise enlist him, mostly as a prop to their anti-Vietnam war objectives, have been doomed from the start to a fruitless enterprise.

McCarthy is another story. He obviously cherishes the limelight and the national scene.

At the height of his state party's bitter internal warfare last year over efforts to dump the then-incumbent Gov. Karl Rolvaag, observers discovered McCarthy on the scene but aloof from the battle, discoursing on some relative obscure aspect of foreign affairs.

His credentials with Democratic arch-liberals are reasonably secure. He placed their favorite Adlai Stevenson, in nomination at Los Angeles in 1960. Earlier, backing his fellow Minnesotan, Hubert Humphrey, in the Wisconsin primary, McCarthy went beyond the call of duty in assaults on John F. Kennedy, whom the liberals eyed suspiciously.

McCarthy wanted the vice presidential nomination with Johnson in 1964, when it was still no disgrace, in the liberals' view, to be associated with the President. The senator was pushed aside, of course, for Humphrey.

The crushing of McCarthy's 1964 hopes left him a free agent, and he has since gained fresh stature with party liberals by attacking the President consistently on Vietnam.

But He Will Run

Right now he appears to be increasing his exposure to dissident Democratic groups, and the betting is he will decide to make a run against Johnson next year—with his name entered perhaps in such primaries as New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Wisconsin, Oregon and California.

War critics eager to "get" the President suddenly see McCarthy as providing the missing focus for their endeavors.

Very possibly the Minnesota could cause Johnson serious embarrassment, either by beating him in some primaries and corraling convention delegates, or by coming close enough to suggest that huge opposition exists.

But it has to be remembered that in 1964 the Democrats had 2,316 delegate votes overall. The 1968 total is unlikely to be much different. Only the wildest dreamers in the anti-war camp can imagine that McCarthy would come within several miles of the 1,159 votes needed to nominate.

Johnson adversaries have been stressing lately that the President is losing more and more support among the young, the academic community and religious leaders. New opinion polls underscore his slide among young people.

But in 1964 only 24 per cent of actual voters were 35 years of age and under, and that figure is expected to rise no more than a point or two in 1968. The young are great under-voters.

The seasoned Democratic leaders, who will be strongly influencing the choice of convention delegates in most states, understands well where the actual votes are. A flurry by McCarthy in some primary states might shake them, but not enough to shatter their traditional support of an incumbent president.

HOW ARE THINGS DOWN ON THE FARM?

A Defense of Bombing the North

How effective is the U.S. policy of bombing North Vietnam? That question, the source of intense controversy in this country, is answered today by a distinguished American correspondent in the second in a series of first-hand reports assessing the realities of the war.

By BOB CONSIDINE
Second of 5 Articles

SAIGON—The angry dialogue over the bombing of North Vietnam usually lacks a telling ingredient: The extent of the damage done to date.

At the cost of some 700 planes and a considerably smaller number of pilots we have changed Ho Chi Minh's dream of a cheap takeover in South Vietnam into a national nightmare for his people.

Though still bound by certain restrictions imposed by President Lyndon Johnson and his advisors, Air Force and Navy planes have wiped out 85 per cent of North Viet Nam's thermal power generating resources, 30 per cent of its railroad system, 50 per cent of its railroad repair capability, 3,500 trucks, 4,000 boats, and half of its force of Russian-built MIG's. (Most of Ho's remaining MIG's are believed to be operating from Red Chinese fields, on the rare occasions that they operate at all).

The bombings have brought about what amounts to a national mobilization of the civilian population. More than 500,000 have been diverted into pick-and-shovel repair work. Some 175,000 are involved in air defense, 100,000 in keeping communication lines open, and 20,000 in coastal defense.

Low Kill Rate

U.S. fighter pilots have become so adept at evading (S.A.M.) surface to air missiles, supplied by Russia, that the kill rate for this impressive 32-foot long hypersonic weapon has fallen to one in 70 fired.

Indeed, intelligence reports filtering back to Saigon tell of bad blood between Soviet technicians and their North Viet Nam counterparts at SAM sites. The Russians are pictured as engaged by the wanton misuse of the costly weapons system by their comparatively naive allies. One such report even carried a swatch of dialogue: Russian: "Hey, watch it. These are expensive weapons and you're firing them like roman candles."

North Vietnamese: "Bah! Your system is no damned good."

The inexorable result of 13,000 sorties a month over the north, most of them directed against the needs and comforts of the enemy, is chaos and privation. There is rationing now of rice, fish and meat. Large areas must depend on crude oil lamps instead of electric light. Every movement by day is fraught with hardship and danger.

But the most galling part of all must be the fact that, for all this sacrifice, North Vietnam can show nothing except increasing misery. The privations have not been rewarded with successes in the battlefields in South Vietnam. The enemy grows stronger each day. The cheers over the downing of an American jet are soon throttled by the appearance of two more to take its place.

Despite our absolute control of the air space over North and South Viet Nam there is little chance that we can ever completely shut off the flow of men and goods from north to south. Defense Secretary Robert McNamara has estimated that enemy forces inside South Viet Nam need hardly 100 tons of war material a day from the north. Their current level of combat being what it is, one hundred tons would not be an impossible store to smuggle down the countless trails that constitute the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

As for manpower, Gen. William C. Westmoreland's headquarters now put at about 6,000 a month the number of armed and trained infiltrators. It is a figure that is not much smaller than the number that flowed into South Viet Nam before the first bomb was dropped above the Demilitarized Zone in February, 1965.

Critics of the U. S. bombing policy have used this fact to "prove" their contention that bombing has no chance of shortening the war or bringing Ho to the negotiations table.

Actually, the impact of the bombing can be seen on just about every North Vietnamese soldier who makes it all the way to his assignment post in South Viet Nam. On the average, he is a younger, poorer-trained and less dedicated soldier than those who came, and often perished, in 1965 and 1966. He has been much more affected by the agonies of the long trip to this war front, a trip made against hazardous and morale-shaking odds: Hostile nature, all the diseases that infect jungle and swamp, and the straining, bombing and napalming by U. S. planes.

He is deserting much more readily than the older comrades who preceded him. If he stays loyal to Ho Chi Minh he may find himself called upon to go places and do things never demanded of his predecessors. The early waves of North Vietnamese fought mainly in the north of South Vietnam. They fought as they had trained, together, united, completely familiar with their accustomed military tactics, precepts, communications and philosophy.

High Desertion Rate

Now the Nguyen-come-lately from Hanoi might well find himself shipped farther and farther south in Viet Nam to plug gaps in Viet Cong units in the central highlands and in South Vietnam East, just to the north of Saigon. The VC desertion rate has been particularly high in those areas. The reason given at Gen. William Westmoreland's headquarters is that the big enemy build-up of 1965 in the lower Mekong Delta area, still overwhelmingly VC-controlled, was drained of much of its manpower.

These recruits, mostly boys and young men, were sent from their swampy homeland to live and fight in the jungles to the north. They rebelled in serious numbers. Their recruiters, tough-willed guerrillas, were forced to stop milking the region for fear of losing the support of the people in general, whose sons had sent word back about the horrors of jungle life.

Hence, gaping holes in VC ranks above Saigon. Hence, the need of filling them with North Vietnamese, most of them much the worse from wear from U. S.

aerial harassment on their weeks-long trip down from the north. There are many intelligence reports dealing with disputes between the VC and their allies from the north. The VC considers them martinets and, worse, "foreigners."

Rule Out N Bomb

It does not seem likely that we will ever accede to hawkish demands that we should "drop the big bomb and get it over with." The "Big Bomb" suggests a nuclear drop, and that is out of the question — what with the U. S. and Russia finding accord at long last on discouraging the use and proliferation of such weapons.

As for destroying the port of Haiphong, which could be done without much trouble with conventional bombs, Secretary McNamara recently told the U. S.

Senate's Preparedness Subcommittee that such a massive move would (1) violate the nation's policy of waging limited war and (2) North Viet Nam could still get most of the military gear it needs by way of land and river routes.

McNamara revealed that American planes had already destroyed most of Haiphong's petroleum off-loading capability. Now the resourceful North Vietnamese float the stuff in by barge from tankers anchored at sea, and have more than enough to keep their battered machinery of war running.

As with the ground forces, the rule of the air forces is simply to keep the pressure on. draw the noose a bit tighter each day. The eventual outcome is inevitable victory.

Next: The unheralded war in Vietnam, the war called "Pacification."

Auto Insurance Hearing Moves Into 2nd Day

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A state legislative hearing on automobile insurance practices moved into its second, and concluding, day today.

At Monday's session, the chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Insurance Rates and Regulation said he planned to introduce into the 1968 Legislature a bill that would prohibit insurance companies from canceling a motorist's policy abruptly or arbitrarily except for non-payment of the premium.

Sen. Bernard G. Gordon, R-Peekskill, whose committee is conducting the hearing, noted that under present circumstances, a driver's coverage could be dropped if his legally parked car were struck by another vehicle.

Among other speakers were two officials of the Erie County Bar Association, who said they had "grave reservations" about a proposal that would eliminate driver fault as a basis for liability in accidents where the damages are $10,000 or less.

The plan's proponents have argued that it would help to eliminate a backlog of negligence cases awaiting court action by having the insurance companies settle some claims directly with clients.

One of the witnesses said, however, that elimination of the state's compulsory insurance law was responsible for high against the careful driver. It also was impossible, he said, to determine whether rates would rise or fall or whether the court congestion would be eased.

Sen. James D. Griffin, D-Buffalo, told the hearing that the state's compulsory insurance law was responsible for high against the careful driver. It also was impossible, he said, to determine whether rates would rise or fall or whether the court congestion would be eased.

Man Asphyxiated

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A 64-year-old man was asphyxiated by carbon monoxide fumes Monday night after he was pinned in the trunk of his automobile by a falling chair.

Police said Walter A. Baumgart of Buffalo was placing a tire in the trunk of the car, parked in his garage, when a chair fell from rafters of the building, where it was stored, and struck the trunk lid.

The car's motor was running at the time, police said, and the garage door was open. Baumgart's daughter found his body. The Baumgart home is at 299 Stockbridge Ave.

UCCC Holds Student Government Institute

Ulster County Community College hosted a conference last Saturday of the College Institute of Student Government Association (CISGA) at its new Stone Ridge campus.

About 70 people attended the conference, and they represented student government associations in the community colleges of Orange, Adirondack, Fulton-Montgomery, Rockland, Dutchess, Hudson Valley, Sullivan, and the agricultural and technical colleges of Cobleskill and Delhi.

The principal speaker at the conference that ran from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. was Joseph Silvey, assistant director of student activities at the State University College in Albany.

Cut Demonstrations

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Sterling W. Brown, president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, says fewer civil rights demonstrations are needed.

"The compulsive rush of many civil rights groups into direct action has created unwaranted faith in the value of demonstration," Brown said in his annual report to the trustees of the conference Sunday night.

"Education and persuasion have been neglected," he said, adding that the conference will continue to concentrate its efforts in those fields.

Silvey spoke on the problems of student leadership in the two-year college.

Also speaking were Charles Schenck, coordinator of the organization at UCCC.

Conference sessions were held in the George Clinton administration building and the John Burroughs Science Building on the campus.

County Peace Group Slates Vigil Thursday

Ulster County Peace Committee will hold another vigil in front of the County building in Kingston on Thursday from 12:15 to 12:45.

The purpose of the vigil, according to the chairman of the committee, Mrs. Howard O. Day, is because, "We are alarmed at the increase of dead and wounded American servicemen in the war which most outstanding Americans claim is illegal and immoral, and we are (therefore) protesting the holocaust."

Mrs. Day said that it was the view of the committee that "only persistent opposition to the war, all over the nation, can make an impact on the administration and chiefs of staff who refuse to view the conflict other than in military terms. The peace committee is in favor of immediate withdrawal from the conflict."

Air Pollution Muscle, Money Decision Due

WASHINGTON (AP) — A compromise bill intended to put more muscle and money into the federal fight against air pollution is before both houses of Congress.

A Senate-House conference committee reached agreement Monday on the $428 million measure and Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W. Va., head of the House delegation, said final action in his chamber could come today.

The money figure matched that in a House bill but was $272 million less than approved earlier by the Senate. But Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, chief sponsor of the measure, called the compromise version effective.

The conference bill would empower the secretary of health, education and welfare to seek court injunctions against pollution whenever he finds it presents a serious health danger.

The measure also earmarks $125 million for a two-year research program aimed at finding ways to extract pollutants from fuels.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market worked unevenly lower early Tuesday as it began groping once more for a base from which another rally might be launched. Trading was fairly active.

After a mixed opening, losses outnumbered gains and the Dow Jones industrial average showed a slight decline.

American Telephone continued to attract new investment demand and moved up a fraction.

Fairchild Camera recouped a couple of points and Whittaker came back around 1½.

Occidental Petroleum, off more than a point, was still under profit taking. IBM lost 3 points.

General Instrument dropped a point or more.

Standard Oil of Indiana lost more than a point as the oils relapsed from their recent gains.

All Big Three auto stocks were fractional losers. Local strikes disrupted auto production and General Motors faced a growing threat of a walkout.

Opening blocks included: Copeland Refrigeration, off ½ at 32; American Motors, off ¼ at 10; and Standard Oil (New Jersey), up ¼ at 65½.

On Monday The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 5 to 309.7.

Three Arrested On Trespassing At Mt. Marion

Investigation of complaints filed by the operators of a Mt. Marion Club resulted in three arrests on Monday by Kingston State Police.

Sergeant Donald Paulsen said charges of criminal trespassing were lodged against Dale Francis Smith, 21, of RD Kingston, and Michael F. Staccio, 17, also of RD Kingston. A 15-year-old boy charged with a similar misdemeanor was released pending Family Court hearing.

The arrests were made by Senior BCI Investigator Charles Teelon and Trooper Craig Bremer, who investigated complaints from the Harugary Club that the property had been entered.

Troopers said Smith and Staccio pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace Robert Sedge, Town of Ulster. Smith was sentenced to 60 days in the county jail and Staccio received a 90-day sentence. He was released on a conditional discharge, Sergeant Paulsen reported.

Both vehicles were towed away.

Officer Warren Hull investigated and cited Abramowitz for operating an unlicensed motor vehicle and failure to keep the vehicle under control.

Patrolman Mance noted that three other vehicle and traffic charges have been pending against Abramowitz since last April when he was reportedly involved in an accident. At that time he was summoned for leaving the scene of an accident, improper registration plates and operating an unlicensed motor vehicle, police said.

Air Traffic Halting

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — Zambia will stop all air traffic with Rhodesia, its white-ruled rebel neighbor, on Jan. 1, 1968.

A transportation ministry spokesman said today. And no new deal will be made with Rhodesia "because there is no legal government there," he added.

The route between the capitals, Lusaka and Salisbury, has been the busiest and most profitable in Central Africa, with 19 flights each way every week.

Zambian businessmen who maintain close contacts with Rhodesia, the main import route to landlocked Zambia, are bound to be angry. Observers believe the government decision will take large amounts of revenue away from Zambia Airways and the new $16.8 million airport here.

Discuss Lowering Of Pound Sterling

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — When the British pound sterling is discussed these days, the talk inevitably turns to the probability that the government might decide to lower its official value.

Such talk is like pouring salt into an open sore in the hide of the British Labor government, for devaluation is the very thing it has dedicated itself to avoiding—but always finds itself facing.

As some financial men view it, the longer the British economy remains weak in relation to some of its neighbors, the greater the chance that the government might consent to devaluation.

A nation's currency is only as strong as the nation. It is its symbol. A nation cannot have a weak economy and a strong currency.

The more politically aware analysts, however, are quick to point out the damaging loss of confidence in Britain that would result from admitting weakness.

From taking the easy way out of paying off the big bills it has run up.

The big question now, however, is this: Can dedication win out over the persistent economic problems that are leading so many analysts to the suspicion that the stated value of the pound is based more on pride than reality?

Presently the British pound is at a parity of $2.80 to the U.S. dollar, a figure that has been maintained since 1949, although with much difficulty.

When Harold Wilson's government took office three years ago rumors of devaluation ran wild. They subsided, however, when Wilson imposed an austerity diet for Britain.

Wilson told his countrymen they would have to work harder, deny themselves pay increases, forgo luxuries, raise their productivity and export more goods.

Now, three years later, the government's program, despite some successes, has failed to achieve its goal of building up a favorable trade balance. And the rumors, again, are louder than ever.

If Britain were to devalue, the theorists say, her prices would fall. This would make foreigners more inclined to buy British goods, and thus the adverse balance of payments problem might begin to be corrected.

As if fate was an adversary, another unusual factor is now entering the picture: interest rates. Rising rates in the United States are causing money to be withdrawn from British investments, aggravating the payments situation.

To counter this the British government has been forced to raise its basic interest rate twice in the past three weeks, first from 5.5 per cent to 6 on October 19, and then to 6.5 per cent last week.

Nevertheless, some analysts now say it is going to take even greater inducements to bolster confidence in the pound. An increase to 7 per cent may be in order, they say.

Nevertheless, some analysts now say it is going to take even greater inducements to bolster confidence in the pound. An increase to 7 per cent may be in order, they say.

To counter this the British government has been forced to raise its basic interest rate twice in the past three weeks, first from 5.5 per cent to 6 on October 19, and then to 6.5 per cent last week.

"I'm a stock broker. Here's an advantage smart investors see in listed stocks."

"Millions of shares are traded daily, so it's usually easy to buy or sell."

You mean there's always a buyer or seller when I might need one?

"Yes, that's usually the case. If you think the timing is right to buy, or get out of a stock, or switch from one to another, your broker can usually find your counterpart in a matter of minutes, if it's a common stock listed on the New York Stock Exchange."

Just how many people own listed stocks?

"The Exchange estimates upward of 12 million, well over half of all the shareowners in the country. And there are all kinds—big and small, old hands and newcomers. And your chances to buy or sell when you want to are often helped along by the big institutional investors, buying and selling large blocks. This flow of stock between buyers and sellers is called liquidity."

Suppose it just happened that none of these investors were interested when I wanted to buy or sell?

"Then an Exchange member called a Specialist usually steps in with an offer close to the price of the last sale made on the floor. It's part of his function to help maintain a fair and orderly market."

FREE INVESTMENT GUIDE ON LISTED STOCKS—SEND COUPON TODAY.

How many investors do business in the Exchange market on an average day?

"It's not uncommon for 85,000 buy and sell orders to come to the Exchange floor in a day, and for 10 million shares to be traded. When you have that kind of supply and demand, at a central marketplace, you see why listed stocks offer the investor so much opportunity to time his purchases and sales to fit his own circumstances."

Okay, now for the big question—how do I go about choosing a listed stock?

"Start by talking over your own circumstances with a member firm broker. The amount you can invest after regular expenses and emergencies. Your goal, such as long-term growth, dividends, or maybe the relative safety of bonds. Ask for facts and your broker's own opinion of listed stocks that attract you. Then make your judgment. There's always risk, as in any investment, but sound investing can be a rewarding experience. That's why it's so important to understand the advantages that listed stocks can offer."

County Peace Group Slates Vigil Thursday

Ulster County Peace Committee will hold another vigil in front of the County building in Kingston on Thursday from 12:15 to 12:45.

The purpose of the vigil, according to the chairman of the committee, Mrs. Howard O. Day, is because, "We are alarmed at the increase of dead and wounded American servicemen in the war which most outstanding Americans claim is illegal and immoral, and we are (therefore) protesting the holocaust."

Mrs. Day said that it was the view of the committee that "only persistent opposition to the war, all over the nation, can make an impact on the administration and chiefs of staff who refuse to view the conflict other than in military terms."

The peace committee is in favor of immediate withdrawal from the conflict.

Air Pollution Muscle, Money Decision Due

WASHINGTON (AP) — A compromise bill intended to put more muscle and money into the federal fight against air pollution is before both houses of Congress.

A Senate-House conference committee reached agreement Monday on the $428 million measure and Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W. Va., head of the House delegation, said final action in his chamber could come today.

The money figure matched that in a House bill but was $272 million less than approved earlier by the Senate. But Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, chief sponsor of the measure, called the compromise version effective.

The conference bill would empower the secretary of health, education and welfare to seek court injunctions against pollution whenever he finds it presents a serious health danger.

The measure also earmarks $125 million for a two-year research program aimed at finding ways to extract pollutants from fuels.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market worked unevenly lower early Tuesday as it began groping once more for a base from which another rally might be launched. Trading was fairly active.

After a mixed opening, losses outnumbered gains and the Dow Jones industrial average showed a slight decline.

American Telephone continued to attract new investment demand and moved up a fraction.

Fairchild Camera recouped a couple of points and Whittaker came back around 1½.

Occidental Petroleum, off more than a point, was still under profit taking. IBM lost 3 points. General Instrument dropped a point or more.

Standard Oil of Indiana lost more than a point as the oils relapsed from their recent gains.

All Big Three auto stocks were fractional losers. Local strikes disrupted auto production and General Motors faced a growing threat of a walkout.

Opening blocks included: Copeland Refrigeration, off ½ at 32; American Motors, off ¼ at 10; and Standard Oil (New Jersey), up ¼ at 65½.

On Monday The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 5 to 309.7.

Three Arrested On Trespassing At Mt. Marion

Investigation of complaints filed by the operators of a Mt. Marion Club resulted in three arrests on Monday by Kingston State Police.

Sergeant Donald Paulsen said charges of criminal trespassing were lodged against Dale Francis Smith, 21, of RD Kingston, and Michael F. Staccio, 17, also of RD Kingston. A 15-year-old boy charged with a similar misdemeanor was released pending Family Court hearing.

The arrests were made by Senior BCI Investigator Charles Teelon and Trooper Craig Bremer, who investigated complaints from the Harugari Club that the property had been entered.

Troopers said Smith and Staccio pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace Robert Sledge, Town of Ulster. Smith was sentenced to 60 days in the county jail and Staccio received a 90-day sentence. He was released on a conditional discharge, Sergeant Paulsen reported.

Wawarsing Driver Has Court Date

Charged with two motor vehicle law violations as the result of a collision in Ellenville Monday afternoon, Peter Abramowitz, 75, of Briggs Avenue, Town of Wawarsing, is scheduled to appear Wednesday night before Police Justice Ronald Elias.

Village Patrolman Robert Mance said Abramowitz was driving a 1954 pickup truck west on Center Street shortly after 4:20 p. m. when he approached an eastbound vehicle. Abramowitz applied the brakes and the truck slid sideways and collided with a parked car owned by Edward Goodspeed of 1 Hill Street, Ellenville.

Both vehicles were towed away.

Officer Warren Hull investigated and cited Abramowitz for operating an uninsured motor vehicle and failure to keep the vehicle under control.

Patrolman Mance noted that three other vehicle and traffic charges, have been pending against Abramowitz since last April when he was reportedly involved in an accident. At that time he was summoned for leaving the scene of an accident, improper registration plates and operating an unregistered motor vehicle, police said.

Air Traffic Halting

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — Zambia will stop all air traffic with Rhodesia, its white-ruled neighbor, on Jan. 1, 1968.

A transportation ministry spokesman said today, And no new deal will be made with Rhodesia "because there is no legal government there," he added.

The route between the capitals, Lusaka and Salisbury, has been the busiest and most profitable in Central Africa, with 19 flights each way every week.

Zambian businessmen who maintain close contacts with Rhodesia, the main import route to landlocked Zambia, are bound to be angry. Observers believe the government decision will take large amounts of revenue away from Zambia Airways and the new $16.8 million airport here.

Discuss Lowering Of Pound Sterling

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — When the British pound sterling is discussed these days, the talk inevitably turns to the probability that the government might decide to lower its official value.

Such talk is like pouring salt into an open sore in the hide of the British Labor government, for devaluation is the very thing it has dedicated itself to avoiding—but always finds itself facing.

As some financial men view it, the longer the British economy remains weak in relation to some of its neighbors, the greater is the chance that the government might consent to devaluation.

A nation's currency is only as strong as the nation. It is its symbol. A nation cannot have a weak economy and a strong currency.

The more politically aware analysts, however, are quick to point out the damaging loss of confidence in Britain that would result from admitting weakness, from taking the easy way out of paying off the big bills it has run up.

The big question now, however, is this: Can dedication win out over the persistent economic problems that are leading so many analysts to the suspicion that the stated value of the pound is based more on pride than reality.

Presently the British pound is at a parity of $2.80 to the U.S. dollar, a figure that has been maintained since 1949, although with much difficulty.

When Harold Wilson's government took office three years ago rumors of devaluation ran wild. They subsided, however, when Wilson imposed an austerity diet for Britons.

Wilson told his countrymen they would have to work harder, deny themselves pay increases, forgo luxuries, raise their productivity and export more goods.

Now, three years later, the government's program, despite some successes, has failed to achieve its goal of building up a favorable trade balance. And rumors, again, are louder than ever.

If Britain were to devalue, the theorists say, her prices would fall. This would make foreigners more inclined to buy British goods, and thus the adverse balance of payments problem might begin to be corrected.

As if fate was an adversary, now say it is going to take even another unusual factor is now entering the picture: interest rates. Rising rates in the United States are causing money to be withdrawn from British investments, they say.

To counter this the British government has been forced to raise its basic interest rate twice in the past three weeks, first from 5.5 per cent to 6 on October 19, and then to 6.5 per cent last week.

Nevertheless, some analysts now say it is going to take even greater inducements to bolster confidence in the pound. An increase to 7 per cent may be in order, they say.

Milwaukee's Open Housing Marchers Continue Relentless Trek

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) —but Police Chief Harold Breier gave evidence of the economic alarm, issuing a statement that shoppers would be safe, day or night, under the eye of extra police, whom he said would be "routinely" assigned because of the approaching Christmas shopping season.

Meanwhile, the marchers' cause was mired in the legislative processes of City Hall. Then, last Monday, when aldermen admitted privately that the Common Council was ready to adopt at least a token measure, militant opponents of any open occupancy law delivered a petition bearing 26,000 names and demanded a public referendum. With certification of the document's signatures, the council was barred from acting until the referendum—which probably will be on the spring ballot when the aldermen themselves seek re-election.

But there still is a possibility of a solution before the marchers face Wisconsin's bitter winter. On Friday, a bipartisan group of six state legislators introduced a bill to remove the clause from the state's open housing law that exempts more than two-thirds of the housing in Milwaukee's Inner Core. Passage would make a city ordinance superfluous.

The demonstrations, small when they began last summer, have become small again. Sometimes only a token-size band of young Negroes walk, especially when the cold wind whips the fall rain.

The number of spectators likewise has dwindled, and so has their anger. Bottles and bricks no longer fly out of the darkness toward the line of marchers.

At the peak of the crisis, as many as 13,000 persons—by police estimate—lined the sidewalks of the virtually all-white South Side as the marchers trooped through.

It was a season for cotton denim and T-shirts and a litany that served as the only dialogue: "Sock it to me, Black Power, ooh aah!"

The answer from the sidewalks was loud and clear: "Kill, kill, kill... We want slaves."

The first night of the marches—Monday, Aug. 28—250 demonstrators, most of them members of the Milwaukee Youth Council of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, braved a shower of rocks, bottles and slurs.

They returned to the South Side the next night. This time police had to lay down a curtain of tear gas to shield the marchers from the mob.

Police, struggling to control the situation, also used nightsticks, turning them on marchers during three nights of trying, and failing, to enforce a suddenly declared city ban on demonstrations.

The ban was lifted and the marches continued. On the sunny weekends of September, as many as 1,500 people joined the parade. Black Power advocates came from Chicago and East St. Louis, Ill., and New York. Comedian Dick Gregory moved in and for a time seemed to be sharing leadership with a white Roman Catholic priest, the Rev. James E. Groppi, Youth Council adviser.

Clergymen came from Minneapolis, white liberals from Philadelphia, Negro students from Racine, Wis. Opponents of open housing reacted by organizing their own marches.

Pressure mounted on the Common Council to adopt an open housing ordinance—something it had refused to do four times, each time by a vote of 18-1 against it.

Concern grew over the impact of the marches on Milwaukee's image, and its aftermath business. "We're hurting," complained a downtown bartender. "Groppi's killing us."

Gregory called for a boycott of Milwaukee beer and suggested a Christmas boycott of department stores by the city's 86,000 Negroes.

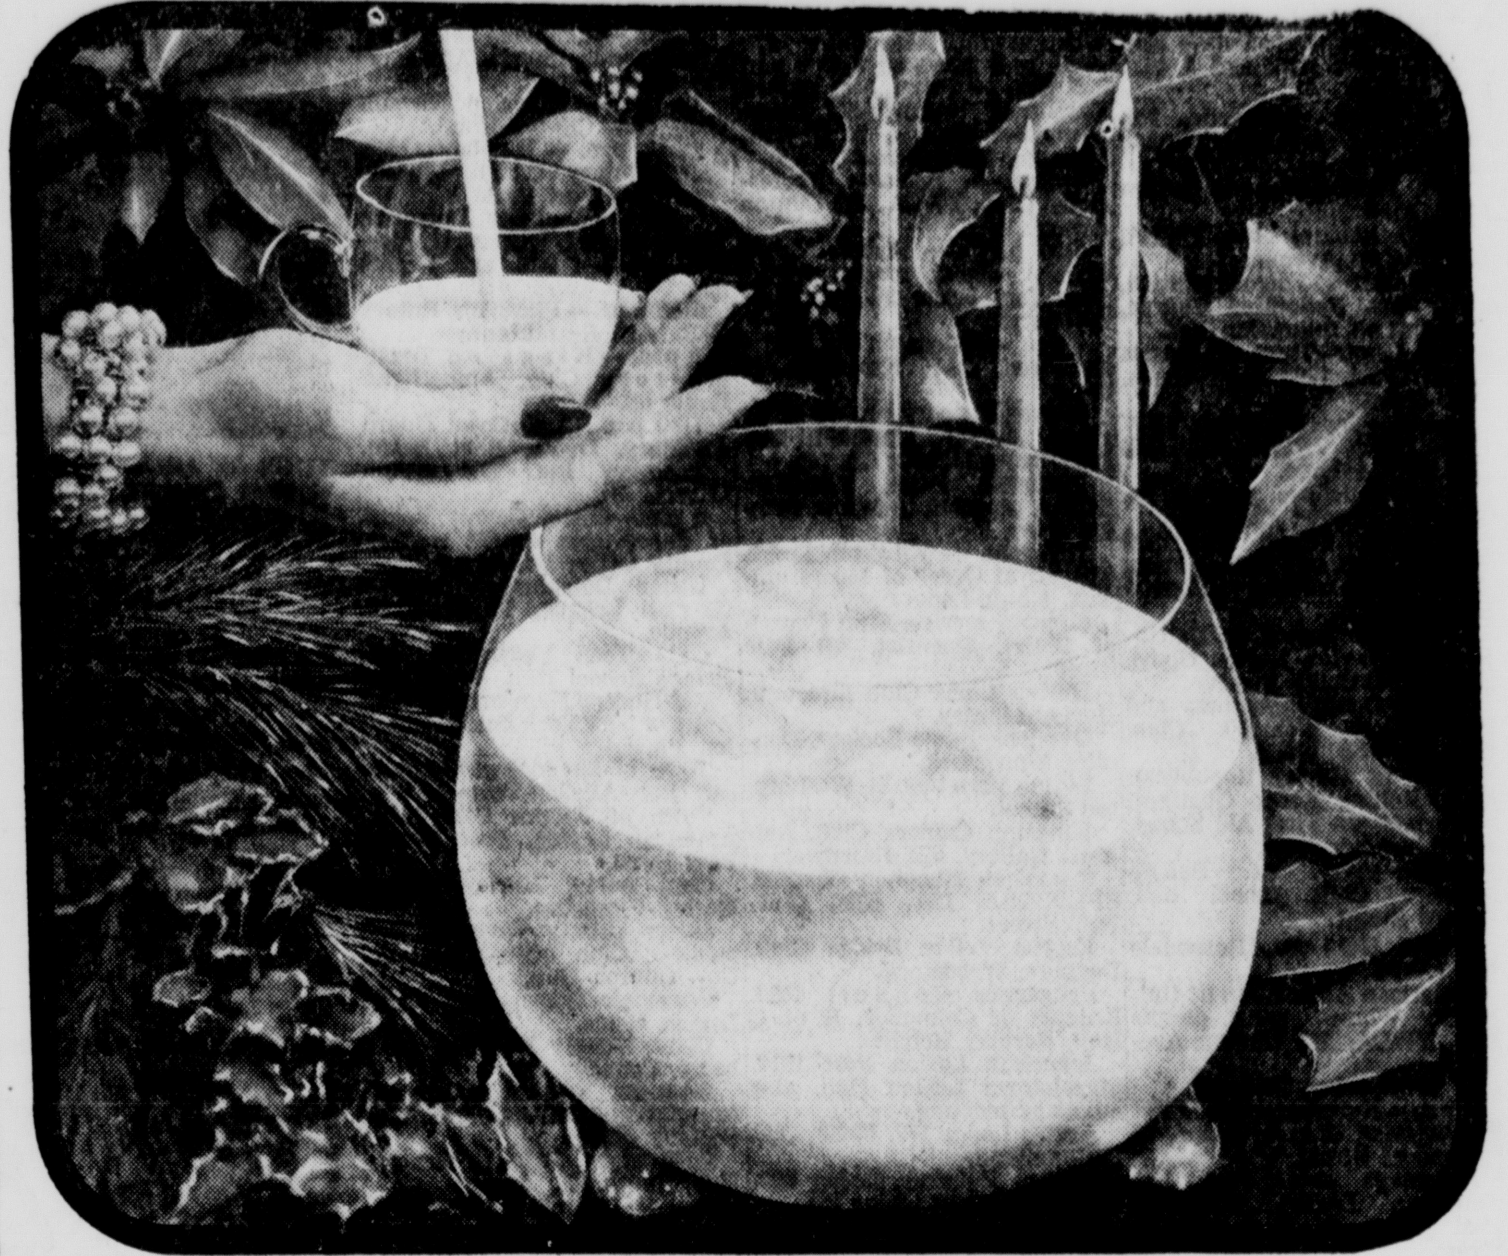

There were hints of other tactics, and all the while the marches continued.

Father Groppi, who became a national figure during the crisis, has been less in evidence at rallies and marches. "This is fine with me," he said. "I'm listening."

The priest said that the leadership role was in the hands of ship I have ever encountered. They're magnificent."

The thinning ranks mattered not at all, he said. What was important was the creation of what he called a "disciplined army" to "call the shots" and apply the pressure.

Father Groppi said he fears one is going to see this as an argument for a justification of violence.

Here's why Wide-Tracking is catching on as the great American sport.

Having captured so adroitly the flight of motion in this splendid GTO, our engineers could well have quit while far ahead. But that would have been decidedly un-Pontiac. So under that cheeky hood, and behind that revolutionary new bumper, they put the soul of a car born to the road. The suspension, with its Wide-Track stance and turnpike tuning, clings like morning fog. The optional engine, while delivering 360 hp. can be ordered to breathe through those pinched nostrils. The tires are very wide. The seats are bucket. (You can exchange them for bench.) The shifter is Hurst for greater shifting around. And the General Motors safety package, which includes side marker lights, is standard. The option list is as grand as it is long, and includes Rally II wheels, hood-mounted tach, even a stereo tape player. You might be lucky enough to find The Great One at your Pontiac dealer's. Or on the road. But nowhere else.

Here's why Wide-Tracking is catching on as the great American sport.

Having captured so adroitly the flight of motion in this splendid GTO, our engineers could well have quit while far ahead. But that would have been decidedly un-Pontiac. So under that cheeky hood, and behind that revolutionary new bumper, they put the soul of a car born to the road. The suspension, with its Wide-Track stance and turnpike tuning, clings like morning fog. The optional engine, while delivering 360 hp, can be ordered to breathe through those pinched nostrils. The tires are very wide. The seats are bucket. (You can exchange them for bench.) The shifter is Hurst for greater shifting

around. And the General Motors safety package, which includes side marker lights, is standard. The option list is as grand as it is long, and includes Rally II wheels, hood-mounted tach, even a stereo tape player. You might be lucky enough to find The Great One at your Pontiac dealer's. Or on the road. But nowhere else.

91 Arrested in Riots On Ohio College Campus

WILBERFORCE, Ohio (AP)—Students threw stones, bottles, furniture and other objects in a riot that ended today with 91 arrests as police and National Guardsmen patrolled the predominantly Negro Central State University campus.

At least 10 Ohio highway patrolmen and sheriff's deputies were injured, mostly by thrown objects, authorities said. Most of the injuries were minor, but one patrolman suffered a broken leg.

The Greene County sheriff's office said between 300 and 400 students were involved. Several of those arrested also complained of injuries.

About 600 National Guardsmen moved into the area Monday night to help put down the riot. About half moved onto the campus and the others were on standby at the county fair grounds four miles away.

Capt. Dwight Carey of the highway patrol said classes would be held today but that no other student congregations would be permitted.

Several fires, most of them minor, were reported on and off the campus. The display window was shot out of a furniture store two miles from campus and a fire caused damage to a grocery at Xenia, four miles from the campus. The highway patrol reported 12 of its patrol cars and three sheriff's cars damaged.

The disturbance started at midmorning Monday along with the return to the campus of an expelled student, Michael Warren, 23, of Cleveland.

He had been ordered off the campus last week after allegedly threatening harm to President Rembert Stokes of neighboring Wilberforce University, also a predominantly Negro school.

Upon his return, several other students quickly joined him in barricading themselves in a class room. Classroom chairs, tables and other furniture and equipment was thrown out of the room, some of it broken.

Warren later left the campus and was arrested several hours later at Yellow Springs, eight miles north of the campus.

All of those arrested were jailed in Xenia.

Municipal Court Judge Joseph L. Hagler said 88 of those taken into custody would be charged with disorderly conduct and be eligible for release on bonds of $25 each. Warren, the judge said, would face a trespassing count that carries a $100 bond.

The U.S. coat of arms is more commonly called the Great Seal of the United States.

Town of Esopus Board Adopts $232,127 Budget

The adoption of the 1968 budget for the Town of Esopus was the highlight of the November meeting of the Esopus Town Board held at the Town Hall, Port Ewen.

The total budget for town-wide purposes amounts to $232,127. In addition, another $151,764 was appropriated for fire, street lighting, water and park districts, making the total appropriations $383,891. Of this amount, $153,023 will accrue to the town through state aid and departmental earnings, leaving a total of $230,868 to be raised by taxation.

To Raise $123,017

Of the total of $230,868 to be raised by taxes, $123,017 will be raised for town-wide purposes and the remaining $107,851 will be raised within the special districts to pay for the operation of the town fire districts, and street lighting districts.

The $123,017 to be raised on a town-wide basis will be an increase of $6,923 over the amount raised for the current year.

According to Supervisor Roger W. Mabie, the increase will be more than offset by increased assessments in the township brought about by building growth during the past year.

The proposed budget for next year had originally been presented at the October meeting of the board. The only change between presentation and adoption was to increase the quarters allowance to the Town of Esopus Post 1298, American Legion from $200 to $300, a change which was authorized to be made in town budgets by the last session of the state legislature.

At the public hearing held immediately prior to the board meeting, no one spoke against any item in the proposed budget read in detail by Supervisor Mabie.

Petition Filed

A letter was received from Mrs. Alfred Jankowski Jr., Esopus Avenue, Ulster Park, enclosing a petition bearing some 271 signatures asking for the installation of an automatic warning device at the Esopus Avenue crossing of the New York Central Railroad. The board had previously agreed, upon the submission of the petition, to contact the State Public Service Commission and request the installation of an automatic warning signal.

Growth in the area has caused an increase in traffic over the Esopus Avenue grade crossing. Charles D. Montafia, who was elected to the post of Justice of the Peace at last Tuesday's general election, was appointed to the post for the balance of the year by the board. The appointment will fill the vacancy on the board caused by the death of Allan S. Dargie on October 29. The post to which Montafia was elected in Tuesday's election ordinarily would not officially take effect until January 1.

Permission was granted to the Town of Esopus Business Men's Association to install Christmas lighting during the yuletide season on Broadway, Port Ewen. The board will make the necessary application to the State DPW.

Approval was given to the Ross Park Commission to place approximately 2,500 yards of fill at Ross Park preliminary to the installation of a new softball diamond. The fill will be placed jointly by W. Roger Elmendorf and William Yesse Jr. who submitted a low bid for the work. The fill material will be furnished at no cost

Antipoverty Program Prospects Are Brighter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Support from urban Republicans for the antipoverty program brightens prospects for House passage of the controversial legislation without major change, although Southern Democrats remain to be heard from.

20 Crucial Votes

With 20 moderate Republicans supplying the crucial votes—and most Southerners not participating—the House defeated 159 to 149 Monday a GOP-led attempt to reduce authorized funds for the program from $2.06 billion to $1.4 billion.

The House then went on to turn back a string of amendments from Republicans aimed at changing the operation of the Job Corps. The only amendment adopted all day would eliminate a second-year authorization for the program.

The action encouraged Democratic leaders to hope for continued success in preserving the Neighborhood Youth Corps and Community Action programs against amendment when voting resumes today.

Child's Wisdom

BRANDENBURG, Ky. (AP) — Mrs. Garland Brown recently asked her five-year-old daughter, Emily, if she intends to go to college.

"If I don't," the youngster replied, "the Army's going to get me."

The relative ease with which the amendments were defeated admittedly surprised Democratic supporters of the bill and they were quick to give credit to Republicans who joined them.

Despite strong appeals from the GOP leadership for support of the amendment cutting the spending authorization by $660 million, Republicans from New York, New England, Michigan and Ohio opposed it. The vote was taken by counting members and no roll call was taken of individual votes.

Before the House takes final action on the bill, probably late Wednesday, the Republicans will have another chance to cut the money. Then it will be on the record with a roll call and the result could be different.

If so it will be because Southern Democrats will feel compelled to vote for what they regard as an economy measure.

The absence of the Southerners Monday was in accord with an informal agreement reached with the bill's backers to refrain from helping the Republicans with their amendments.

But on a roll call to reduce spending they will probably insist on being recorded in favor of the Republican position.

To offset the defections from their own party, Democrats are hoping to pick up as many as 40 Republicans and it may be enough to keep the funding provision intact.

More Apparent Than Real

The issue of money is more apparent than real in the present bill, anyway. The actual funds for the program will have to be appropriated by separate legislation and Chairman George H. Mahon of the House Appropriations Committee has already announced he will go no higher than $1.6 billion.

The Senate has authorized $2.2 billion and a final compro-

Town of Esopus Board Adopts $232,127 Budget

The adoption of the 1968 budget for the Town of Esopus was the highlight of the November meeting of the Esopus Town Board held at the Town Hall, Port Ewen.

The total budget for town-wide purposes amounts to $232,127. In addition, another $151,764 was appropriated for fire, street lighting, water and park districts, making the total appropriations $383,891. Of this amount, $153,023 will accrue to the town through state aid and departmental earnings, leaving a total of $230,868 to be raised by taxation.

To Raise $123,017

Of the total of $230,868 to be raised by taxes, $123,017 will be raised for town-wide purposes and the remaining $107,851 will be raised within the special districts to pay for the operation of the town fire districts, and street lighting districts.

The $123,017 to be raised on a town-wide basis will be an increase of $6,923 over the amount raised for the current year.

According to Supervisor Roger W. Mabie, the increase will be more than offset by increased assessments in the township brought about by building growth during the past year.

The proposed budget for next year had originally been presented at the October meeting of the board. The only change between presentation and adoption was to increase the quarters allowance to the Town of Esopus Post 1298, American Legion from $200 to $300, a change which was authorized to be made in town budgets by the last session of the state legislature.

At the public hearing held immediately prior to the board meeting, no one spoke against the town through state aid and departmental earnings, leaving a total of $230,868 to be raised by taxation.

Petition Filed

A letter was received from Mrs. Alfred Jankowski Jr., Esopus Avenue, Ulster Park, enclosing a petition bearing some 271 signatures asking for the installation of an automatic warning device at the Esopus Avenue crossing of the New York Central Railroad. The board had previously agreed, upon the submission of the petition, to contact the State Public Service Commission and request the installation of an automatic warning signal.

Growth in the area has caused an increase in traffic over the Esopus Avenue grade crossing. Charles D. Montafia, who was elected to the post of Justice of the Peace at last Tuesday's general election, was appointed to the post for the balance of the year by the board. The appointment will fill the vacancy on the board caused by the death of Allan S. Dargie on October 29. The post to which Montafia was elected in Tuesday's election ordinarily would not officially take effect until January 1.

Permission was granted to the Town of Esopus Business Men's Association to install Christmas lighting during the yuletide season on Broadway, Port Ewen. The board will make the necessary application to the State DPW.

Approval was given to the Ross Park Commission to place approximately 2,500 yards of fill at Ross Park preliminary to the installation of a new softball diamond. The fill will be placed jointly by W. Roger Elmendorf and William Yesse Jr. who submitted a low bid for the work. The fill material will be furnished at no cost to the Park Commission by Zale Liese.

It was announced by Superintendent of Highways Paul Mercier that a new bridge built by the County Highway Department on the Floyd Ackert Road crossing of Black Creek at West Park was nearing completion and would formally be opened in the near future.

Land Constables

On the motion of Councilman E. Stirling Potter, the board complimented the town constables for the fine job they had done over the Halloween weekend.

C. Chester DuMont Jr., chairman of the Town Planning Board, announced that monthly meetings are being held with Raymond & May, the town's planning consultants and that a final draft of a traffic circulation pattern for the township is nearing completion.

DeVall H. Dunbar, building inspector, reported that 17 building permits had been issued during October with a total valuation of the work undertaken of $201,692. The permits were for six new homes, seven house alterations, three garages and one horse barn.

Port Ewen Board of Water Commissioners reported that the average daily water consumption during October had been 206,975 gallons.

James T. Freer, dog warden, was appointed dog census enumerator. The census of dogs is required to be taken each November by the State Department of Agriculture and Markets.

Permission to use the Town Hall was granted to the Anderson 4-H Club for the holding of a bake sale on the morning of November 18, and to the Ulster County Pigeon Club for the holding of a pigeon show on December 3.

The board adjourned in the memory of Allan S. Dargie who has served the Town of Esopus so faithfully and well as a Justice of the Peace and as a most valued member of the Town Board. At his death on October 29, Justice Dargie was completing his 16th year in office.

Antipoverty Program Prospects Are Brighter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Support from urban Republicans for the antipoverty program brightens prospects for House passage of the controversial legislation without major change, although Southern Democrats remain to be heard from.

20 Crucial Votes

With 20 moderate Republicans supplying the crucial votes—and most Southerners not participating—the House defeated 159 to 149 Monday a GOP-led attempt to reduce authorized funds for the program from $2.06 billion to $1.4 billion.

The House then went on to turn back a string of amendments from Republicans aimed at changing the operation of the Job Corps. The only amendment adopted all day would eliminate a second-year authorization for the program.

The action encouraged Democratic leaders to hope for continued success in preserving the Neighborhood Youth Corps and Community Action programs against amendment when voting resumes today.

Child's Wisdom

BRANDENBURG, Ky. (AP) —Mrs. Garland Brown recently asked her five-year-old daughter, Emily, if she intends to go to college.

"If I don't," the youngster sighed, "the Army's going to get me."

The relative ease with which the amendments were defeated admittedly surprised Democratic supporters of the bill and they were quick to give credit to Republicans who joined them.

Despite strong appeals from the GOP leadership for support of the amendment cutting the spending authorization by $660 million, Republicans from New York, New England, Michigan and Ohio opposed it. The vote was taken by counting members and no roll call was taken of individual votes.

Before the House takes final action on the bill, probably late Wednesday, the Republicans will have another chance to cut funds for the program will have the money. Then it will be on the record with a roll call and the result could be different.

If so it will be because Southern Democrats will feel compelled to vote for what they regard as an economy measure.

Seek Four AWOL Seamen in Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese police near the headquarters of the Japan Peace for Vietnam Committee which was believed Navy men who criticized U.S. policies in Vietnam and said they wanted to defect to a country not involved in the conflict.

There was speculation the quartet might have taken refuge in a foreign embassy, as another GI opponent of the war did earlier this year.

Authorities concentrated their search in Tokyo's bookstore district near the headquarters of

They were identified as Airman John M. Barilla, 20, of Catonsville, Md.; Airman Richard D. Bailey, 19, Jacksonville, Fla.; Airman Appren, Michael A. Lindner, 19, Mount Pocono, Pa., and Airman Appren, Craig W. Anderson, 20, of San Jose, Calif.

The Navy said the sailors had been AWOL since Oct. 23, two days before the Intrepid left Yokosuka after an eight-day recreational visit.

U.S. officials said the four had military identification cards but no military traveling orders that would permit them to board planes leaving Japan. They also did not have U.S. passports.

Kenneth C. Criggs of Boise, Idaho deserted on April 3 while on leave from Vietnam and took refuge in the Cuban Embassy. He is believed still there. The Cubans have turned down Japanese requests for his extradition, saying he has been granted political asylum.

Nursery Slates Parents Night

Parent Night at the Fair Street Nursery School will be held at the school, Monday, Nov. 20, at 8 p. m.

The program will be oriented to an excellent new film, much in demand from the Cornell Film Library—Parent to Child on Sex. Dr. Bert MacFadden, board member and well-known Kingston pediatrician, will lead the discussion after the film is shown.

To Elect Parents

Also on the agenda will be the election of four parent representatives, one from each of the school's four classes, to represent the parents on the board of directors during the school year. Present officers of the board of the Fair Street Nursery School, besides Mrs. Dingee, president, are the Rev. Edwin C. Coon, vice president; Mrs. Herbert Lown, secretary; and Miss Harriet Campbell, treasurer. Standing members of the board include, besides Dr. MacFadden, Mrs. Donald Thompson, Mrs. James Beesley, James Matthews, Carl Modjeska and Peter Stokette.

Fair Street Nursery School is a non-sectarian, non-profit pre-school meeting in rooms designed for it in the new education building of the Fair Street Church, 209 Fair Street, Kingston. Over 80 children—three to five years old—are enrolled in four classes for this, the 17th year of the school's operation, under the direction of Mrs. Benjamin Emerick, director and head teacher. Crater Drama

Jubilant scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory counted more than 4,000 pictures since the latest U.S. spacecraft landed on the moon last Thursday.

The latest pictures included a mosaic series showing a moon-scape strewn with boulders up to two feet across. The rocks had been tossed from a crater, the five-frame series showed.

The rocks extended back to the horizon, a low ridge in the background.

The three-legged Surveyor, which fell at a potential astronaut landing spot, also has spent 12 hours operating a device that analyzes soil content with radiation.

Kill him with carelessness.

Tempting. Tempting. Tempting.

Then off on an impulsive joyride that you could have prevented. A joyride that ended without joy. Smacked into a brick wall. You ought to know that 64% of people who live long enough to be arrested for car theft are under 18.

And you ought to know that 76% of stolen cars were left unlocked.

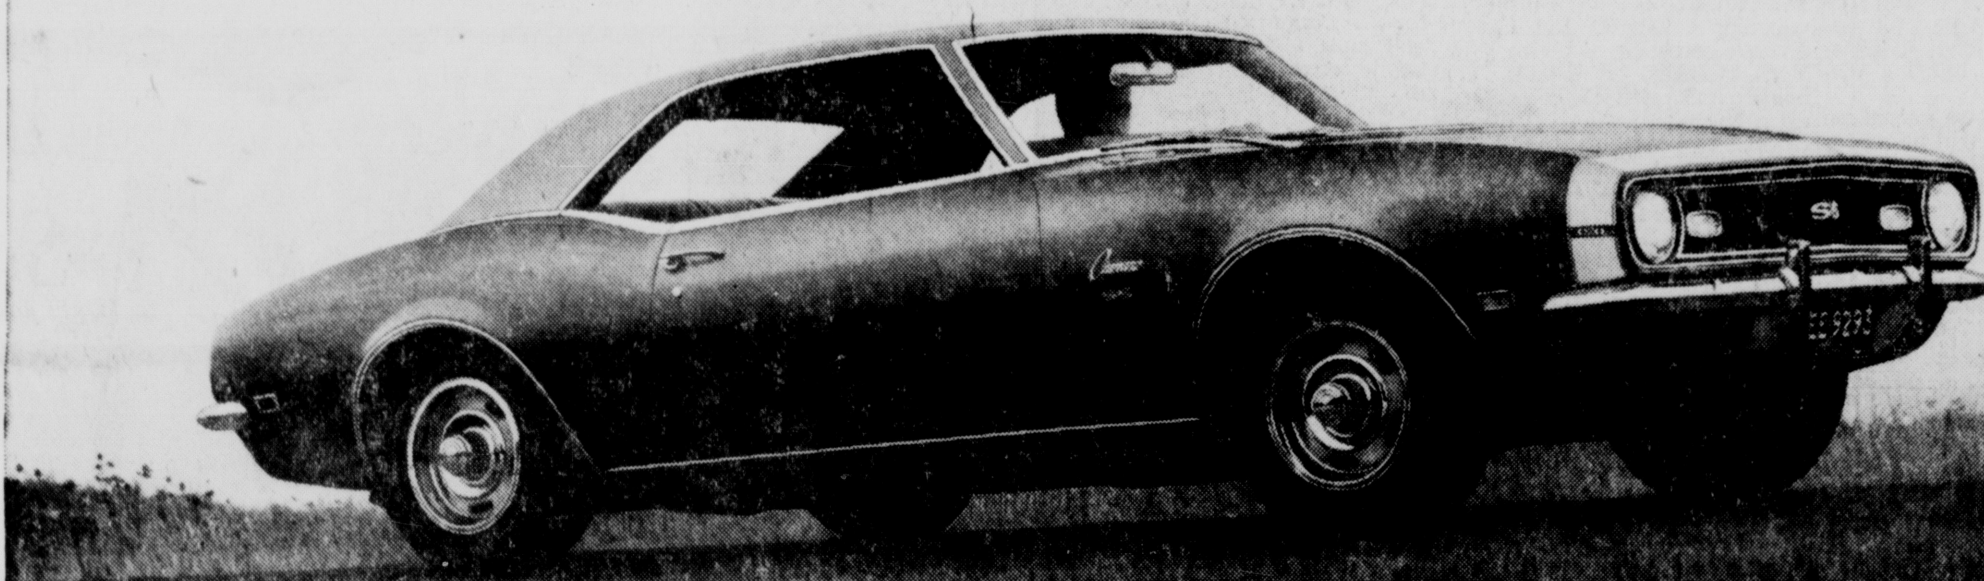

Nearly half also had the ignition keys in them. And you ought to know what to do about it.

Don't help a good boy go bad. Lock your car. Take your keys.

Crater Drama

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A rock-littered moon, with craters, is pictured in the dramatic photos being televised to earth by Surveyor 6.

Jubilant scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory counted more than 4,000 pictures since the latest U.S. spacecraft landed on the moon last Thursday.

The latest pictures included a mosaic series showing a moon-scape strewn with boulders up to two feet across. The rocks had been tossed from a crater, the five-frame series showed.

The rocks extended back to the horizon, a low ridge in the background.

The three-legged Surveyor, which fell at a potential astronaut landing spot, also has spent 12 hours operating a device that analyzes soil content with radiation.

Episcopal Order at West Park Benefits in Ohio Man's Will

By JEAN DOLAN

The Order of Holy Cross Episcopal Monastery at West Park is sharing in an estimated $9.2 million bequest under the terms of the will of Charles Shepard Lee, member of a wealthy Cincinnati family who died Oct. 24.

The area monastery will receive 5,000 shares of Procter & Gamble stock from its long time benefactor.

Lee, a close friend of the late Father Francis W. G. Parker who a life professed member of the Order of Holy Cross, had been a steady contributor to the West Park monastery and in 1964 gave $2,000 to the building fund. He also supported the OHC sponsored St. Andrew's School for Boys near Sewanee, Tenn. and the Liberia monastery in West Africa where the Order carries on its overseas missionary work.

The wealthy Ohio man who was 74 at the time of his death was well known at the local monastery, often participating in retreats here.

Most Welcome

A spokesman at the monastery today said the bequest was most welcome and would undoubtedly be used in conjunction with the building fund.

Holy Cross Monastery completed a million dollar building program at the West Park site last year, incurring a $500,000 mortgage.

Included in the complex are new refectory, ambulatory and monastery building. Considered an "architecturally exciting retreat," the new refectory and monastery incorporate novel octagonal designs.

Other very modern facets of the new building are "plastic sandwich" passage ways and low wide archways. The refectory is a single architectural unit supported on one foundation where 30 yards of concrete were poured as a trunk for the floating room which seats 80 people and affords a stunning view of the Hudson River and the entire monastery complex.

Founded in 1884

The Order of Holy Cross was founded in 1884 in the slums of New York by the Rev. James O. S. Huntington. The original house was in Westminster, Md. When the Order moved to West Park in 1904 the cornerstone of the Maryland home was recovered and more recently has been incorporated in the new ambulatory.

New monks from this center go out to branch houses in Africa, Tennessee and California as well as to foreign mission fields.

Recently a group of swinging, guitar playing monks from Holy Cross have been visiting Kingston area Episcopal churches to introduce the new trial liturgy of the denomination which seeks to update the ancient ritual of the church.

Lee in contributing to Holy Cross through his bequest continues an interest in all things Episcopal.

Bus Inspector Is Honored At Dinner Party

Twenty-one bus operators and nine public service inspectors along with their wives and fellow workers tendered a surprise dinner party at Ohler's Mountain Lodge recently for John Pope of Kingston who recently retired as the local bus inspector.

Pope had served as a motor vehicle inspector for the Motor Carrier Bureau of New York State Department of Public Service for the past 30 years. During August of this year Pope reached the age requiring mandatory retirement. He retired September 1, according to regulations of the Department of Civil Service.

Pope's inspection assignments had always been operated from his Kingston home which served as an area office. At times, he had inspected buses and service in Greene, Delaware, Ulster, Sullivan, Orange and Dutchess Counties.

Arthur Mulligan served as toastmaster and presented a gift to Pope on behalf of all present. Mrs. Arthur Mulligan presented him with a picture she had taken of his last official act, that of placing an inspection sticker on one of their buses.

Ole Christensen, formerly of Kingston, will now serve as bus inspector for this area and has taken over Pope's former area. Christensen was a former resident of Kingston and was well known in this area as a musician, having led Ole Christensen's Orchestra.

Pope will continue to make his home at 69 Highland Avenue in Kingston.

4 Fined, Took Deer Hit by Another Car

State Trooper John Crodelle of the Highland subdivision was on patrol when notified of the incident. He later recovered the deer and charged the four men with illegal transportation of a wild deer in violation of the State Conservation Law. The men were taken before Justice of the Peace John O. Beaver, Town of Esopus. They pleaded guilty and each paid a $10 fine. The deer was turned over to an agent of the State Conservation Department.

State Police Sergeant D. B. Clarke identified the four men charged with the conservation law violation as, Raymond Yerry, 41, of 35 East Strand; Howard Schultz, 43, of Herick's Lane, Stone Ridge; Lawrence Reed, 34, of 52 Sycamore Street and James Gardner, 22, of 25 North Wilbur Avenue, both of Kingston. According to Sergeant Clarke, Kenneth A. Harlin, of 38 Eastern Parkway, Poughkeepsie, was driving his car along Route 9W when a deer leaped in front of the vehicle and was hit and killed. Clarke said Harlin left to notify state police, and while he was gone the deer was taken.

4 Fined, Took Deer Hit by Another Car

State Trooper John Crodelle of the Highland substation was on patrol when notified of the incident. He later recovered the deer and charged the four men with illegal transportation of a wild deer in violation of the State Conservation Law. The men were taken before Justice of the Peace John O. Beaver, Town of Esopus. They pleaded guilty and each paid a $10 fine. The deer was turned over to an agent of the State Conservation Department.

State Police Sergeant D. B. Clarke identified the four men charged with the conservation law violation as, Raymond Yerry, 41, of 35 East Strand; Howard Schultz, 43, of Herick's Lane, Stone Ridge; Lawrence Reed, 34, of 52 Sycamore Street and James Gardner, 22, of 25 North Wilbur Avenue, both of Kingston.

According to Sergeant Clarke, Kenneth A. Harlin, of 38 Eastern Parkway, Poughkeepsie, was driving his car along Route 9W when a deer hit and was hit and killed. Clarke said Harlin left to notify state police, and while he was leaped in front of the vehicle and the deer was taken.

"I received the second package from the Ulster County Servicemen's Committee and once more I was most pleasantly surprised to be the recipient of your gifts. When I received the first package the men in my platoon were nearly as flabbergasted as I was.

"They had never experienced such consideration from such a large number of people. Defeat Your High Cost of Living —

Turkey talk—that's what it is. While the New York State Market Information Service tries to convince the housewife that turkey prices will be at the lowest ever, that same housewife is trying desperately to beat the high cost of living.

But American women have spirit and many of them have launched an all-out campaign to maintain family living standards despite the high price tags. With great feminine logic they say, "If costs are too high for income, then income must grow for we have no intention of down-grading our family's lives." Rah! Rah! Team!

Now how do we go about it. According to a recent study by the Family Research Division of the Construction Research Bureau, it was revealed that some wives, by inclination, others because they're needed at home for various reasons, prefer to use their time and talents to help fill the service needs of their communities rather than look for formal work in offices or industry. They have come up with some very ingenious money-making ideas that I'm passing on to you.

Driving for Profit —

Inadequate transportation and parking facilities in both urban and suburban areas has inspired women to use the family car to pick up and deliver neighbors to plants and offices, collect and transport children to afterschool activities and pick up elderly people without cars to travel to and from dentists, doctors and other appointments. Not a bad idea but be sure to have proper insurance coverage.

Be A Super Super Shopper —

Pass the word around that you are available to take a grocery list to the super market and fill the order. You could charge a fee for your services and still find a host of women blessing you as a real wife-saver.

The shopping service idea can be expanded into personal service shopping. Local stores may (I say "may") give a discount on all purchases you make in exchange for bringing them the business.

Be A Handywoman —

If like many housewives you have become an expert "handyman" offer your services to those who have no talent along these lines: minor repairs and such renovations as painting, wallpapering and floor covering. For example one woman in Ohio built a profitable sideline of installing vinyl asbestos tile floors after her friends admired her own beautiful new floor which she did herself.

If You're Artistic —

Nimble fingers can turn some pretty pennies when employed as a gift wrapping service, a maker of rugs or afghans to order, crocheting baby gifts and toys, making ornaments and decorations for Christmas, bridal showers and other special occasions.

Mostest Hostess —

If you like entertaining, make your pleasure pay off by offering your services as a professional party giver! Tell your neighbors that you will handle every step or any part of a party from the issuing of invitations through the decorating of dining or living room to the catering, right on through the cleaning up. As your business grows, you'll want to keep on file a list of local capable "helpers" to assist you on more elaborate occasions.

The Lunch Bunch —

One mid-west woman found a gold mine in the form of preparing packaged lunches for working men and women and school children. The enterprising woman contacted offices, workmen at building sites, industrial or manufacturing centers with the information that homemade luncheons were available to be delivered on order.

Let People Know —

Start small and the need for your services will grow as one satisfied customer recommends you to another. Prepare simple bulletins with information and prices for distribution and posting where possible. Try the bulletin boards at your local grocery store.

Back to the Turkey Farm

Official bulletins inform us that competition and plentiful supplies will force retailers to sell at near cost and turkey will be widely featured all the way from 29 cents to 49 cents per pound depending on weight and brand. Heavier tom turkeys are usually in the low range and lighter weight hens in the upper brackets. Some local fresh killed turkeys may be higher. Happy shopping.

Durling-Markle Nuptials Are Told

MRS. BURTON MARKLE

On Sunday, Nov. 5, 1967, marriage vows were exchanged by Miss Diane Durling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Durling of Tuxtenbridge Road, Kingston, and Burton Markle, son of Mrs. John Baker of Hurley and Burton A. Markle of West Hurley.

The wedding ceremony took place in St. Catherine Labour Church, Lake Katrine with the Rev. Father Amirauff officiating. Traditional wedding music was provided by Mr. and Mrs. James Sweeney. The family pews were marked with white satin ribbon and a bouquet of blue carnations was dedicated at the Altar of the Blessed Mother in honor of the double ring wedding.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length gown of peau de soie with accents of embroidery on the bodice, full chapel length skirt and sleeves. A stylized headpiece of seed pearls held her silk illusion veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of orchids and carnations.

Miss Arlene Durling, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a full length empire styled gown of aqua satin with a full length redingote of lace. She carried a bouquet of yellow carnations.

Miss Darlene Genter of Kingston and Mrs. Jeffery Martin of Ruby were the attendants. Their gowns were identical to that worn by the honor attendant except in pink and they carried light blue carnations.

Daniel Durling, brother of the bride, was ringbearer. Kenneth Wamsley of Kingston was best man and ushering were Thomas Wamsley of Kingston and John Shaefer of High Falls.

A reception for 110 guests was given at Elmer's Inn in Ruby after the church ceremony.

For her wedding trip the bride wore a lace and satin ensemble with a corsage of yellow carnations.

The bride and bridegroom are graduates of Kingston High School. Mr. Markle was employed by the Ulster County Highway Dept. prior to his service with the U. S. Air Force. He is stationed in Westover, Mass., where the couple plan to reside.

Prior to the wedding, two bridal showers were given for the bride. One was hosted by her attendants and the other was given by Mrs. John Sexton of Kingston.

The Mature Parent

Disgusted with Reproach

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: How you hit home with that column on the young man who always said mean things to his girl! My first husband killed himself soon after our marriage and my effort to live with my in-laws landed me in a mental hospital. Its psychiatrists helped a little. But I am now again making my second husband miserable. I say something mean to him and then something even meaner. I'm so ashamed of the first crack, I'm so scared of my tongue I can't talk to other people.

ANSWER: Truly, the men you marry seem to relish misery.

But you won't agree with that, will you? No, it's your meanness that's afflicting present husband as it drove your first one to suicide. O.K., have it your way. However, I myself admire that bad tongue of yours, that fine, rebellious, scornful tongue that's sick and tired of these men you marry who collapse into misery every time you frown at them like so many tremble Ben Bolt's Allies.

Why doesn't your husband tell you off when you say "something mean" to him? Why does he take these cracks of yours lying down? Tell me that, please. Because he loves you? Because he's so forebearing and good? Oh, come on. Those psychiatrists who helped you must have suggested that people like you—people who love to blame themselves — tend to involve themselves with people who love to see them do it. These people choose to collapse into misery under our meanness instead of getting up on their hind feet to return us the crack which makes our contempt inappropriate.

People kill themselves because suicide is the ultimate, unanswerable reproach to other people. As to those we "make" miserable, they hang around to see to it that we do precisely that. The hanging around allows them to wallow in delicious reproach of our meanness and so relieve themselves of all responsibility to pull themselves up and out of their misery.

And you, you self-blamer from a long way back, fall for this trick. But your tongue will not fall for it. It's disgusted with all this reproach heaped upon you by yourself and other people — and it says so. It tells the truth. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.).

Sewing Queen's Weekend Highlighted

Mary Beth Anne Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Smith of 46 Mountain View Avenue, Hurley, was named Junior Miss "Queen of Sewing" in the finals of the Singer World Stylemaker contest in New York on November 9.

The young miss started her rise to the top at the Wall Street Singer Center in Kingston. For her weekend in New York, Mary Beth and other finalists visited the Statue of Liberty, the United Nations and Lincoln Center.

The outfit that won Mary Beth the top spot and her trip to Europe is a top-stitched, A-line gold heather wool dress with matching coat. The coat has brushed gold buttons. To complete the ensemble, she made a hat from gold heather wool with black checks.

Mary Beth is an eighth grade student at the J. Watson Bailey Junior High School and a member of the YWCA, school orchestra and ski club. She first learned to sew last summer and she now sews curtains and room decorations in addition to her own clothes. She is looking forward to her trip to London and hopes to meet her pen pal there and to see where her ancestors lived.

The distinguished panel of judges who selected Mary Beth for top honors were: Eugenia Sheppard, noted fashion columnist; Eleanor Lambert, New York fashion authority; and Anne Fogarty, designer of clothes for the young.

MARY BETH hangs on to the brimmed hat she made as part of her winning entry as the wind ripples the flags in front of the United Nations Buildings, above. She visited the UN with the 17 other finalists in the contest. Twelve-year-old Mary Beth made an A-line dress and double-breasted coat in gold heather wool with a coordinated gold and black tattersall wool check hat. Highlight of the week was a night at the theatre to see "Fiddler on the Roof" with its new star Harry Goz, at right. Mary Beth visits with the star and a co-finalist Mindy Strauss of Phoenix, Ariz.

EXPLORING CHINTOWN during a fabulous week in New York City are Mary Beth and Teresa Louise West of Wyoming, Ohio, at right, on the start of a tour of Wall Street, Greenwich Village, the Statue of Liberty, and other Manhattan sights. Red, Old Golds Win Grid Honors

Red gridgers nipped Green, 6-0, to capture light honors and Old Golds stopped Big Red, 6-0, to earn heavyweight honors in the J. Watson Bailey Junior High football leagues.

Dave Stevens' touchdown was the difference as Red captured light honors. The champions finished with a 4-2 mark while second place Green was 3-3.

Charles Bouton of the second place Green gridgers was the scoring leader with 37 points, a record. He had six touchdowns and an extra point.

Phil Abdallah, Gary Fatum and Pete Fabiano led the Old Gold boys to their championship. The winners finished with a 5-1 mark for the season.

Abdallah led the scorers with 30 points, well behind the 51 compiled last year by George Geanuleas. Fatum was second with 19 points.

Big Green's 3-3 record was good for second place. Big Red, defending champion, slipped to a 1-5 mark.

Elect Mrs. Paul DeLisio Woodstock RC President

Mrs. Paul DeLisio of Woodstock has been elected president of the Woodstock Riding Club for 1968. Mrs. DeLisio, who is considered one of the best informed and most popular women on the show circuit, succeeds John Larson of Woodstock.

Other new officers are: Lewis McMahon, Rifton, vice president; Mrs. Helen Rogaski, Woodstock, secretary; and Mrs. Rene McMahon, Rifton, treasurer.

Elected to the board of directors were: Mrs. DeLisio, Mrs. Ada Herrick, Mrs. Joan Morehouse, and Donald Avallan, all of Woodstock; Robert Davis, West Hurley; Jessie Short, Saugerties; and Lewis McMahon, Rifton.

Retiring president John Larson thanked all club members for making 1967 one of the most exciting years in the club's 18-year history. More than 580 horses and riders competed in six shows held during the 1967 season.

Highlighting the year were four summer Junior Riding Days. No other club in New York state devoted so much time and instruction to youth in proper riding techniques.

The riding club's final activity for 1967 was a six-mile trail ride over Spencer and Ohayo Mountains. Mrs. Gail LaPage of Woodstock led the field of 36 riders. The ride ended at the club's Ohayo Mountain show grounds with a steak roast and dedication of the new club room.

Miracle Shot Wins for Dallas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jerry Harkness may have made shots with a little more style, but he'll never make a longer one.

John Beasley's jump shot with one second remaining Monday night gave Dallas a one-point lead over Indiana in an American Basketball Association game and that would seem to have wrapped it up.

But the ball came in to Harkness near his own basket as the buzzer went off. Almost unbelievably it was on target all the way and went in, giving the Pacers a 119-118 victory.

In the only other ABA game, New Orleans topped Anaheim 106-98.

Indiana now is 2½ games in front in the ABA's Eastern Division. Fred Lewis was the Pacers' top scorer with 26 points, but Bob Verga and Cliff Hagan each had 30 for the Chaparrals.

Doug Moe's 36 points led the Buccaneers to their triumph. Steve Kramer scored 24 for the Amigos.

Warriors King Lords Over NBA

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim King of the San Francisco Warriors maintained his lead in National Basketball Association scoring last week, according to statistics released today.

King has scored 374 points for a 23.4 average while Len Wilkens of St. Louis trails with 366 points. Wilt Chamberlain of Philadelphia leads in field-goal percentage, hitting on 57.7 of his shots, while Nate Thurmond of San Francisco leads the rebounders with 24.6 per game.

Bob Weiss of Seattle is the free-throw leader with an .870 percentage and Wilkens leads in assists with 7.9 per game.

Plan Golf Course in New Paltz

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

An Ulster County group known as New Paltz Property Affiliates, Inc., has announced plans to build an irrigated 9-hole limited membership golf course at New Paltz.

The syndicate hopes to have the course ready to open by the summer of 1969. It would be located off Huguenot Street, along the Wallkill River, in New Paltz.

Identified with the group are District Attorney Joseph Torraca; Doug Sheppard, golf and basketball coach at State U., New Paltz; Eric Winkky, a retired state trooper; and Mike Perry, basketball coach at Ulster County Community College.

A limited membership club is planned. Present plans call for a maximum 200 membership.

The group plans to purchase property sufficient to expand the facilities to 18 holes in the future.

A large Colonial style house on the property will be converted into a clubhouse. The property also has barns, a swimming pool and tennis courts. The group envisions the location as the most complete sports complex in the mid-Hudson area when it is completed.

The site is readily adaptable to a golf course with a minimum of land reclamation. When completed it will be the second, new major course in Ulster County. Another layout is being built in Saugerties by a group headed by attorney Morris Rosenblum. That, too, will be inaugurated as a 9-hole on tract of land that can easily be enlarged to 18 holes.

Completion of the proposed New Paltz layout and the Saugerties course, expected by early 1968, would bring to nine the number of standard sized courses operating in the area.

Wiltwyck Country Club, of course, is one of two 18-hole courses in the county. The 9-hole layouts include The Twaalfskil Club, one of the oldest in the nation; Woodstock, Shawangunk, Nevele at Ellenville; the Granit at Accord; and Green Acres, a mini-sized 9-hole in Kingston; and Lake Mohonk.

A tenth course which was to have been known as the Scorpio A.C., off the High Woods road, was abandoned before it was completed.

Five Lettermen Buoy State Swimmers

Five returnees are expected to bolster the swimming squad this year at State University (New Paltz) as the Hawks prep for the opening at the Ulster pool against Long Island University.

Coach Art Stockin, who guided the Hawks to a 6-6 record last year in his first season at the helm, said enthusiasm is high and he looks for an improvement and the first winning season in the school's history.

Returning from the 1966 season are co-captains Richard

Bailey and Fred Sachs, both freestylers. Bailey was a star at Middletown High School. Other returnees include diving champ Art Kramer; Dave Green, breaststroke; and Doug Poyurov, freestyle. Up from the frosh team are Dave Alexander, Nat Tobin and Mark Hurst.

This year's freshman team has some notable prospects, including Mike Janoska (Plainview), Jim Gollner (White Plains), Tom Goldspagh (New Milford), Dan Kaley (Brooklyn) and Jerry Hoetner (Lake Ronkonkoma).

New Paltz has carded a scrimmage meet against St. John's on Saturday and Stockin will get a better evaluation of the team's chances as a result of the scrimmage.

Red, Old Golds Win Grid Honors

Red gridders nipped Green, 6-0, to capture light honors and Old Golds stopped Big Red, 6-0, to earn heavyweight honors in the J. Watson Bailey Junior High football leagues.

Dave Stevens' touchdown was the difference as Red captured light honors. The champions finished with a 4-2 mark while second place Green was 3-3.

Charles Bouton of the second place Green gridders was the scoring leader with 37 points, a record. He had six touchdowns and an extra point.

Phil Abdallah, Gary Fatum and Pete Fabiano led the Old Gold boys to their championship. The winners finished with a 5-1 mark for the season. Abdallah led the scorers with 30 points, well behind the 51 compiled last year by George Geanuleas. Fatum was second with 19 points.

Big Green's 3-3 record was good for second place. Big Red, defending champion, slipped to a 1-5 mark.

Plan Golf Course in New Paltz

By CHARLES J. TIANO Sports Editor

An Ulster County group known as New Paltz Property Affiliates, Inc., has announced plans to build an irrigated 9-hole limited membership golf course at New Paltz.

The syndicate hopes to have the course ready to open by the summer of 1969. It would be located off Huguenot Street, along the Wallkill River, in New Paltz.

Identified with the group are District Attorney Joseph Torracca; Doug Sheppard, golf and basketball coach at State U., New Paltz; Eric Winkky, a retired state trooper; and Mike Perry, basketball coach at Ulster County Community College.

A limited membership club is planned. Present plans call for a maximum 200 membership.

The group plans to purchase property sufficient to expand the facilities to 18 holes in the future.

A large Colonial style house on the property will be converted into a clubhouse. The property also has barns, a swimming pool and tennis courts. The group envisions the location as the most complete sports complex in the mid-Hudson area when it is completed.

The site is readily adaptable to a golf course with a minimum of land reclamation.

When completed it will be the second, new major course in Ulster County. Another layout is being built in Saugerties by a group headed by attorney Morris Rosenblum. That, too, will be inaugurated as a 9-hole on tract of land that can easily be enlarged to 18 holes.

Completion of the proposed New Paltz layout and the Saugerties course, expected by early 1968, would bring to nine the number of standard sized courses operating in the area.

Wiltwyck Country Club, of course, is one of two 18-holers in the county. The 9-hole layouts include The Twaalfskil Club, one of the oldest in the nation; Woodstock, Shawangunk, Nevele at Ellenville; the Granit at Accord; and Green Acres, a mini-sized 9-hole in Kingston; and Lake Mohonk.

A tenth course which was to have been known as the Scorpio A.C., off the High Woods road, was abandoned before it was completed.

Five Lettermen Buoy State Swimmers

Five returnees are expected to bolster the swimming squad this year at State University (New Paltz) as the Hawks prep for the opening at the Ulster pool against Long Island University.

Coach Art Stockin, who guided the Hawks to a 6-6 record last year in his first season at the helm, said enthusiasm is high and he looks for an improvement and the first winning season in the school's history.

Returning from the 1966 season are co-captains Richard and Fred Sachs, both freestylers. Bailey was a star at Middletown High School. Other returnees include diving champ Art Kramer; Dave Green, breaststroke; and Doug Poyourow, freestyle. Up from the frosh team are Dave Alexander, Nat Tobin and Mark Hurst.

This year's freshman team has some notable prospects, including Mike Janoska (Plainville), Jim Gollner (White Plains), Tom Goldspagh (New Milford), Dan Kaley (Brooklyn) and Jerry Hoetner (Lake Ronkonkama).

New Paltz has carded a scrimmage meet against St. John's on Saturday and Stockin will get a better evaluation of the team's chances as a result of the scrimmage.

UCLA surged into first place in the national college football rankings today, the major development in a shakeup of the Top Ten resulting primarily from another one of Oregon State's poll-axing performances.

The Beavers' 3-0 victory over Southern California last Saturday helped UCLA climb into the No. 1 spot and dumped the Trojans into fourth place, the position vacated by the Bruins.

Is There Bowl In USM Plans?

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer

The college football bowl picture still stands shrouded in fog today, but it should clear Saturday and surprising Army is expected to march out of the haze with its first post-season date in history.

All Army, with a 7-1 record, has to do is beat Pittsburgh—and it is heavily favored to do so—Saturday and Sugar Bowl officials are almost certain to invite the Cadets to play in New Orleans on New Year's Day. And Army might break precedent and accept.

"We're the only service academy that has not played in a bowl," Col. Jerry Capka, athletic director at the U.S. Military Academy, said Monday at West Point, N.Y., after acknowledging that Army has had feelings.

"We have no policy against it. Our attitude is that we will wait until we get a bid and then consider it on its merits."

Tennessee and Oklahoma, should they get by rougher opponents Saturday, are sure to be marching alongside Army Monday, the day bids can be received and accepted under NCAA rules. They must wait until the Monday after the third playing Saturday in November.

Title in Sight
Tennessee can all but wrap up the Southeastern Conference title by beating Mississippi and Oklahoma can do the same in the Big Eight with a victory over Kansas.

If that's the way it turns out, Orange Bowl officials will be beating at the doors to match up the Vols, 6-1, and Sooners, 6-1, in Miami the night of Jan. 1, and both probably would accept.

Should either stumble, Alabama, 6-1, North Carolina State, 8-1, Miami, 6-2, and Auburn, 6-2, are waiting eagerly in the shadows.

Those four teams also are possibilities for the Sugar Bowl, although one of its officials admits "Tennessee and Oklahoma are the most desirable bowl opponents in the country."

Two Tough Tests
Auburn must first get by Georgia and North Carolina State by Clemson on Saturday and Miami by Notre Dame Nov. 24. If Army bows out of the picture, Penn State, 6-2, could step in.

Texas, 6-2, and Texas A&M, 4-4, probably will decide the Southwest Conference title and the Cotton Bowl host in Dallas when they meet on Thanksgiving Day.

The opponent? Take your pick between the teams previously mentioned.

One Rose Bowl team will come out of the clash between Southern California, 8-1, and UCLA, 7-0-1. Saturday for the Pacific-8 title and Indiana, 8-0, can wrap up the Big Ten championship and Pasadena trip by beating Minnesota, 6-2. But Minnesota still could take the title with a victory with Indiana facing Purdue, ineligible for the trip, the following Saturday.

The Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 30 can grab Wyoming, 9-0, with Penn State or Miami a likely opponent.

National League Raps Rival Circuit

CHICAGO (AP) — The National League, holding an informal meeting Monday, rapped the rival American League for allegedly breaking the rules and discussing baseball expansion plans of its own.

President Warren Giles chided the AL for what he called a violation of the rules but said the National League will not contest the junior circuit's expansion to Seattle.

Last month the American League shifted the Athletics' franchise from Kansas City to Oakland and then expanded to 12 teams by awarding franchises to Seattle and Kansas City to operate by 1969, if possible.

Giles said "the major league rules provide that before a major league makes a commitment or takes any official action to expand, its program will be presented to and discussed at a joint meeting."

Giles Statement
"The resolutions adopted by the American League on Oct. 18-19 providing for transfer of the Kansas City club to Oakland and for expansion of the American League to Kansas City and Seattle involves a commitment and official action by the American League prior to a joint meeting which is contrary to the rule," said Giles.

"However, in the interest of baseball as a whole, the National League waives any claim of the rule and will not oppose expansion of the American League to Kansas City and Seattle," he added.

Giles then said the National League discussed expansion at its meeting. No vote was taken, but Giles remarked that he "would say there was sentiment for expansion."

Set Joint Meeting

"We will have a joint meeting on Nov. 30 in Mexico City," said Giles. "The next day the National League will meet on its own, and expansion again will be discussed."

"I do know that there will be no franchises granted at Mexico City if we do decide to expand because we cannot move that fast."

"Our meeting today was just about informal as any which I have presided over. We prepared ourselves to go into the joint meeting and talk intelligently," said Giles.

Giles said he had franchise applications from Buffalo, Dallas-Fort Worth, San Diego and Milwaukee and "I also have a letter from Toronto which I consider a franchise bid and I have an application from another city that has requested that it remain unidentified at this time," he said.

However, Giles later indicated the city wishing to remain unidentified was Montreal and that he also had received "a letter from a good friend of baseball in Denver asking that Denver be considered for a franchise."

The college football bowl picture still stands shrouded in fog today, but it should clear Saturday and surprising Army is expected to march out of the haze with its first post-season date in history.

All Army, with a 7-1 record, has to do is beat Pittsburgh—and it is heavily favored to do so—Saturday and Sugar Bowl officials are almost certain to invite the Cadets to play in New Orleans on New Year's Day. And Army might break precedent and accept.

"We're the only service academy that has not played in a bowl," Col. Jerry Capka, athletic director at the U.S. Military Academy, said Monday at West Point, N.Y., after acknowledging that Army has had feelings.

"We have no policy against it. Our attitude is that we will wait until we get a bid and then consider it on its merits."

Tennessee and Oklahoma, should they get by rougher opponents Saturday, are sure to be marching alongside Army Monday, the day bids can be received and accepted under NCAA rules. They must wait until the Monday after the third playing Saturday in November.

Title in Sight

Tennessee can all but wrap up the Southeastern Conference title by beating Mississippi and Oklahoma can do the same in the Big Eight with a victory over Kansas.

If that's the way it turns out, Orange Bowl officials will be beating at the doors to match up the Vols, 6-1, and Sooners, 6-1, in Miami the night of Jan. 1, and both probably would accept.

Should either stumble, Alabama, 6-1-1, North Carolina State, 8-1, Miami, 6-2, and Auburn, 6-2, are waiting eagerly in the shadows.

Two Tough Tests

Auburn must first get by Georgia and North Carolina State by Clemson on Saturday and Miami by Notre Dame Nov. 24. If Army bows out of the picture, Penn State, 6-2, could step in.

Texas, 6-2, and Texas A&M, 4-4, probably will decide the Southwest Conference title and the Cotton Bowl host in Dallas when they meet on Thanksgiving Day.

The opponent? Take your pick between the teams previously mentioned.

One Rose Bowl team will come out of the clash between Southern California, 8-1, and UCLA, 7-0-1, Saturday for the Pacific-8 title and Indiana, 8-0, can wrap up the Big Ten championship and Pasadena trip by beating Minnesota, 6-2. But Minnesota still could take the title with a victory with Indiana facing Purdue, ineligible for the trip, the following Saturday.

The Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 30 can grab Wyoming, 9-0, with Penn State or Miami a likely opponent.

National League

CHICAGO (AP) — The

National League, holding an informal meeting Monday, rapped the rival American League for allegedly breaking the rules and discussing baseball expansion plans of its own.

President Warren Giles chided the AL for what he called a violation of the rules but said the National League will not contest the junior circuit's expansion to Seattle.

Last month the American League shifted the Athletics' franchise from Kansas City to Oakland and then expanded to 12 teams by awarding franchises to Seattle and Kansas City to operate by 1969, if possible.

Giles said "the major league rules provide that before a major league makes a commitment or takes any official action to expand, its program will be presented to and discussed at a joint meeting."

Giles Statement

"The resolutions adopted by the American League on Oct. 18-19 providing for transfer of the Kansas City club to Oakland and for expansion of the American League to Kansas City and Seattle involves a commitment and official action by the American League prior to a joint meeting which is contrary to the rule," said Giles.

"However, in the interest of baseball as a whole, the National League waives any claim of the rule and will not oppose expansion of the American League to Kansas City and Seattle," he added.

Giles then said the National League discussed expansion at its meeting. No vote was taken, but Giles remarked that he

"would say there was sentiment for expansion."

Set Joint Meeting

"We will have a joint meeting on Nov. 30 in Mexico City," said Giles. "The next day the National League will meet on its own, and expansion again will be discussed."

"I do know that there will be no franchises granted at Mexico City if we do decide to expand because we cannot move that fast."

"Our meeting today was just about informal as any which I have presided over. We prepared ourselves to go into the joint meeting and talk intelligently," said Giles.

Giles said he had franchise applications from Buffalo, Dallas-Fort Worth, San Diego and Milwaukee and "I also have a letter from Toronto which I consider a franchise bid and I have an application from another city that has requested that it remain unidentified at this time," he said.

However, Giles later indicated the city wishing to remain unidentified was Montreal and that he also had received "a letter from a good friend of baseball in Denver asking that Denver be considered for a franchise."

Publishes New Novel; Mom and 2 Reunited

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

CULVER CITY, Calif. (AP) — The door was ajar, and a voice inside the bungalow said, "Come on in."

So author Malcolm Braly and his sister, Barbara Millers of Huntington Beach, Calif., entered the house to meet the mother they hadn't seen for 35 years.

Then what happened? "We did the only logical thing under such circumstances," Braly reported. "We all got drunk."

The reunion resulted from publication of Braly's well-reviewed novel, "On the Yard," a searingly realistic view of prison life as seen from the inside.

As many authors do nowadays, Braly was subjected to the television-radio publicity campaign. One of his interviews was on NBC's "Today."

He was born 42 years ago in Portland, Ore., then moved to Los Angeles, where his parents' marriage fell apart. He was 7 when his mother left the family, 14 when his father went away. His teen-age years were spent in Shasta County, Calif., mostly in trouble.

In and out of reformatories and jails from the age of 17, he ran into big trouble in 1952 when he and a buddy tried to rob a San Francisco home.

Braly was apprehended and convicted of robbery and burglary. The sentence: one year to life.

Inside San Quentin he settled down to the dreariness of prison life. He trained himself to be a clerk so he would have access to a prison typewriter.

Braly's writings reached Knox Burger, chief editor of Gold Medal Books in New York. He was impressed and bought two suspense novels by Braly for paperback publication. After 10 years of imprisonment, the author was given a parole. The fact that he had earned $10.00 from his writings helped convince the parole board that he could make it on the outside.

Braly is now an associate editor of Gold Medal.

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP)

The political debut of Shirley Temple Black hangs in the balance today as San Mateo County, a flourishing suburb south of San Francisco, votes whether to send the former child film star or one of her nine male rivals to Congress.

The 39-year-old Woodside matron, mother of three teen-age children, wound up her door-bell-ringing bid in a verbal slugging match with the fellow Republican rated her strongest challenger.

Paul McCloskey, 40, an attorney and a Marine in the Korean war, charged her before the Fair Campaign Practices Committee in Washington D.C., with impugning his patriotism by falsifying his views on how to end the Vietnam war.

Mrs. Black promptly fired a telegram to the committee with the countercharge that it was being used by McCloskey for campaign purposes.

A forecast of morning rain threatened to cut deeper into the prediction of John Bruning, San Mateo County clerk, that only 60 per cent of the more than 221,000 registered for the special election would pull voting machine levers at the 573 polling places.

A runoff election is scheduled Dec. 12 between the top Republican and top Democrat in today's balloting unless one of the four Republicans and six Democrats in the race polls more than 50 per cent—an unlikely prospect.

Voters today could vote for any candidate, regardless of party. The San Mateo County registration is predominantly Democratic.

The special election was set by Gov. Ronald Reagan to fill the seat vacated by the death of Rep. J. Arthur Younger, a Republican.

Mrs. Black, who wants the Vietnam war pressed to a military conclusion on decisions left to the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and McCloskey, who favors a negotiated peace and a withdrawal within the next two years, were rated strong as Republicans.

On the Democratic side, it appeared to be narrowed to a race between Edward M. Keating, 42, the author-attorney who founded Ramparts magazine, and Roy A. Archibald, 47, a councilman for the county's largest city, San Mateo. Keating demands an immediate stop in the bombing of Vietnam and a negotiated peace. Archibald favors stabilizing the military position, then stopping the bombing and negotiating.

The other two Republicans in the race are Earl Whitmore, 49, sheriff of San Mateo County since 1950, and William H. Draper, III, 39, head of a small business investment company.

The other Democrats are Daniel J. Monro, 45, a San Mateo attorney; Bryant McDonald, 55, a Daily City real estate man; Andrew Baldwin, 40, a teacher in Redwood City; and Patrick F.X. McGucken, an Emmittsburg, Md., attorney who came out long enough to establish residence, filed as a self-proclaimed "stand-in for President Johnson" and left without campaigning.

The polls are open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. The county clerk's office expected the voting machine tabulation of the complete but unofficial count to be available around 10 p.m.

The meeting was another chapter in the amazing life of Malcolm Braly, convict author.

He was born 42 years ago in Portland, Ore., then moved to Los Angeles, where his parents' marriage fell apart. He was 7 when his mother left the family, 14 when his father went away. His teen-age years were spent in Shasta County, Calif., mostly in trouble.

In and out of reformatories and jails from the age of 17, he ran into big trouble in 1952 when he and a buddy tried to rob a San Francisco home.

Braly was apprehended and convicted of robbery and burglary. The sentence: one year to life.

Inside San Quentin he settled down to the dreariness of prison life. He trained himself to be a clerk so he would have access to a prison typewriter.

Braly's writings reached Knox Burger, chief editor of Gold Medal Books in New York. He was impressed and bought two suspense novels by Braly; for paperback publication. After 10 years of imprisonment, the author was given a parole. The fact that he had earned $10.00 from his writings helped convince the parole board that he could make it on the outside.

Braly is now an associate editor of Gold Medal.

Former Movie Moppet Faces Test of Voting Booth Today

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — The political debut of Shirley Temple Black hangs in the balance today as San Mateo County, a flourishing suburb south of San Francisco, votes whether to send the former child film star or one of her nine male rivals to Congress.

The 39-year-old Woodside matron, mother of three teen-age children, wound up her door-bell-ringing bid in a verbal slug-fest match with the fellow Republican rated her strongest challenger.

Paul McCloskey, 40, an attorney and a Marine in the Korean war, charged her before the Fair Campaign Practices Committee in Washington D.C., with impugning his patriotism by falsifying his views on how to end the Vietnam war.

Mrs. Black promptly fired a telegram to the committee with the countercharge that it was being used by McCloskey for campaign purposes.

A forecast of morning rain threatened to cut deeper into the prediction of John Brunning, San Mateo County clerk, that only 60 per cent of the more than 221,000 registered for the special election would pull voting machine levers at the 575 polling places.

A runoff election is scheduled Dec. 12 between the top Republican and top Democrat in today's balloting unless one of the four Republicans and six Democrats in the race polls more than 50 per cent—an unlikely prospect.

Voters today could vote for any candidate, regardless of party. The San Mateo County registration is predominantly Democratic.

The special election was set by Gov. Ronald Reagan to fill the seat vacated by the death of Rep. J. Arthur Younger, a Republican.

Mrs. Black, who wants the Vietnam war pressed to a military conclusion on decisions left to the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and McCloskey, who favors a negotiated peace and a withdrawal within the next two years, were rated strong as Republicans.

On the Democratic side, it appeared to be narrowed to a race between Edward M. Keating, 42, the author-attorney who founded Ramparts magazine, and Roy A. Archibald, 47, a councilman for the county's largest city, San Mateo. Keating demands an immediate stop in the bombing of Vietnam and a negotiated peace. Archibald favors stabilizing the military position, then stopping the bombing and negotiating.

The other two Republicans in the race are Earl Whitmore, 49, sheriff of San Mateo County since 1950, and William H. Draper, III, 39, head of a small business investment company.

The other Democrats are Daniel J. Monaco, 45, a San Mateo attorney; Bryant McDonald, 55, a Daily City real estate man; Andrew Baldwin, 40, a teacher in Redwood City; and Patrick F.X. McGucken, an Emmitsburg, Md., attorney who came out long enough to establish residence, filed as a self-proclaimed "stand-in for President Johnson" and left without campaigning.

The polls are open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. The county clerk's office expected the voting machine tabulation of the complete but unofficial count to be available around 10 p.m.

Trampler: Inspiring Performance With Philharmonic Here

By DOROTHY A. NAREL

A decidedly improved orchestra, the announcement of a new Hudson Valley Little Symphony, a new "face" for the program and a gifted guest artist, added up to a satisfying evening with the Hudson Valley Philharmonic last night (Monday, Nov. 13) at the Community Theatre.

The program opened with Mozart's Overture "Don Giovanni," K. 527. Claude Montoux made a wise choice for his opening selection for the orchestra, in playing it, achieved Mozart's intended subtleties and artistic insight. His is the music which never grows away from the listener whether or not he be uneducated, cultured, naive or sophisticated.

The overture, a work which Mozart sat up one evening to write, was given fine interpretation under the direction of Maestro Montoux. The orchestra was fluid and expressive. There was a solidarity of tone and skillful use of orchestral resources, variety in quality and force.

The orchestra's immediate impact was that of a finer, richer and more interesting performance far surpassing those given in the past.

It was in the symphonic poem "Don Juan," Op. 20, that you could really enjoy the Philharmonic's playing. The music was inspired by a poem by Nikolaus Linau. Three principal themes dominate the Strauss tone portrayal of

HUDSON VALLEY PHILHARMONIC

Lenau's Don Juan. The first opens the work, fiery and tempestuous, sweeping through the orchestra like a hurricane wind. It symbolizes the restless and passionate Don Juan. The second theme describes the object of Don Juan's longing. The third, played vigorously and majestically by the Philharmonic, is, of course, the beautiful Don Juan theme.

In last night's performance, Montoux guided his group expertly to the conclusion which almost ends with a shudder as the disillusioned Don Juan yields to disgust. This was one of the finest performances by the Philharmonic to date.

The work itself has a wide sense of form and expression. The various movements linked with each other quite naturally and although the work as a whole is intended to be Hebrew, it has a certain oriental quality about it. Certainly it is not the Jewish soul of music as found in Bloch's "Israel Symphony." But it was Trampler's "voice" through the viola which gave this work expansive range in last night's concert.

Absent from the orchestra last night because of illness was Concertmistress Alice Smiley.

Little Symphony
In the Philharmonic's new program book, which presented reproductions from "Hudson River Day Line, The Story of a Great American Steamboat Company," Claude Montoux made his announcement about the new Little Symphony. About it he says: "An extremely important occasion in the development of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society is the initiation of the Hudson Valley Little Symphony. The Little Symphony is a chamber orchestra composed of approximately 35 key players from the Philharmonic.

"Within the months to come you will hear a great deal about the Hudson Valley Little Symphony. It is my sincere hope, however, that you will choose to hear the ensemble itself during its premier performance in the Poughkeepsie area at Marist College on Monday, Nov. 20 at 8:30 p. m."

According to the program note, the program will consist of Handel's Overture, "The Messiah," Karl Von Dittersdorf's Symphony Concertante for Double Bass and Viola, featuring Kenneth Fricker, bass and Mildred Johnson, viola; and the Beethoven Symphony No. 1 in C Major. Admission will be available at the door or by reservation in advance by contacting the Philharmonic office in Poughkeepsie.

Poor-Affluent Gap Explained At Area Parley

HUD budget by 25 per cent. Taylor's remarks were prepared for the biennial convention of the United Synagogue of America.

He cited figures showing unemployment and underemployment rates in nine cities are almost 33 per cent, while the national unemployment rate is less than 4 per cent.

Joblessness among Negro teenagers is 26 per cent, more than six times the over-all rate, Taylor said. Unless these youths can be reached with education and job opportunities, there is little hope they will accept a system that seemingly has no place for them, he said.

Even as unemployment increases in the core cities, Taylor said, "the majority of new jobs today are opening in the suburbs where they are inaccessible to slum dwellers who face housing discrimination and inadequate or no public transportation."

HUDSON VALLEY PHILHARMONIC

Lenau's Don Juan. The first opens the work, fiery and tempestuous, sweeping through the orchestra like a hurricane wind. It symbolizes the restless and passionate Don Juan. The second theme describes the object of Don Juan's longing. The third, played vigorously and majestically by the Philharmonic, is, of course, the beautiful Don Juan theme. In last night's performance, Montoux guided his group expertly to the conclusion which almost ends with a shudder as the disillusioned Don Juan yields to disgust. This was one of the finest performances by the Philharmonic to date. In the Ernest Bloch work, "Suite for Viola and Orchestra," Walter Tramplor, guest artist, played with vitality, energy, poetry, even mysticism. A magnificent performer, a type of nobility and high-mindedness penetrated his performance. The work itself has a wide sense of form and expression. The various movements linked with each other quite naturally and although the work as a whole is intended to be Hebrew, it has a certain oriental quality about it. Certainly it is not the Jewish soul of music as found in Bloch's "Israel Symphony." But it was Tramplor's "voice" through the viola which gave this work expansive range in last night's concert.

Absent from the orchestra last night because of illness was Concertmistress Alice Smiley.

Little Symphony
In the Philharmonic's new program book, which presented reproductions from "Hudson River Day Line, The Story of a Great American Steamboat Company," Claude Montoux made his announcement about the new Little Symphony. About it he says: "An extremely important occasion in the development of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society is the initiation of the Hudson Valley Little Symphony. The Little Symphony is a chamber orchestra composed of approximately 35 key players from the Philharmonic.

"Within the months to come you will hear a great deal about the Hudson Valley Little Symphony. It is my sincere hope, however, that you will choose to hear the ensemble itself during its premier performance in the Poughkeepsie area at Marist College on Monday, Nov. 20 at 8:30 p. m."

According to the program note, the program will consist of Handel's Overture, "The Messiah," Karl Von Dittersdorf's Symphony, Concertante for Double Bass and Viola, featuring Kenneth Fricker, bass and Mildred Johnson, viola; and the Beethoven Symphony No. 1 in C Major. Admission will be available at the door or by reservation in advance by contacting the Philharmonic office in Poughkeepsie.

Defendants Arraigned Before Mino on Monday

Nine defendants indicted in a partial report of the October grand jury were arraigned before Judge Raymond J. Mino Monday afternoon by Assistant District Attorney Francis Vogt and after entering pleas the cases were adjourned to Nov. 22 at 11 a. m. in order to allow counsel time to review the indictments and make motions if desired.

Seven of the defendants were arraigned on a charge of third degree burglary, unlawfully entering a building and petit larceny, was William Joseph Arroyo, who was represented by Joseph J. Saccoman, who said he would make application for bail.

Three defendants charged with robbery, grand larceny, assault, conspiracy, burglary, unlawful entry and forgery growing out of the alleged robbery and entry to a Rosendale bakery, entered pleas of innocent and two of the cases were set down for Nov. 22 at 11 a. m. for further action. The defendants are Dennis Anthony Havel, Robert George Plump and Karen Ann Waldinsperger. In the case of the Waldinsperger girl, 16, an application was made to have her treated under the Youthful Offender statute. Judge Mino reserved decision and continued bail in her case until Dec. 6 at 11 a. m.

Michael Gerard Christoforo, represented by Howard C. St. John, entered a plea of innocent to a charge of criminal possession of stolen property in the second degree.

Counsel for Christoforo asked 15 days to make motions and asked that bail be fixed. The motion for bail was opposed by Assistant District Attorney Vogt on the grounds of a "long record" of criminal record. Judge Mino reserved on the motion for bail and Christoforo was remanded to jail. The matter was adjourned to Nov. 22 at 11 a. m. In asking for bail, St. John told the court that two others involved in the same alleged crime had been released and the charge against them dismissed.

Henry Zack Dunlap, a former resident of North Carolina and an employee at an Ellenville hotel, entered a plea of innocent to a charge of first degree grand larceny and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle at Ellenville on Sept. 29, 1967. Frank Spada was assigned as counsel.

Naomi Martin Barnett charged with first degree assault on Sept. 8, last, at Highland, entered a plea of not guilty. She said she had come from Florida in July to work in this area. William Gruner was assigned as counsel.

Louis Bevier, New Paltz, and Furman Watson, New Paltz, charged with second degree robbery and petit larceny, alleged to have been committed to a charge of first degree grand larceny and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle at Ellenville on Sept. 29, 1967. Frank Spada was assigned as counsel.

In the case of Bernard Sife, also known as "Bud" Sife, forgery, second degree, alleged to have been committed Oct. 1, 1965, the case was adjourned to Nov. 22 at 11 a. m. and he was released in custody of his counsel Alvin Berg.

Several other cases were called and adjourned to Nov. 22 at 11 a. m.

Poor-Affluent Gap Explained At Area Parley

KIAMESHA LAKE, N.Y. (AP) — The director of the federal government's model cities program said today this nation cannot hope to solve its urban crisis unless the people "understand the gap that exists between the inner city and the suburb, between the poor and the affluent."

With that understanding, said H. Ralph Taylor, assistant secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, will have to come a full commitment by the public to change such conditions. He noted Congress has voted less than half the money for model cities requested by President Johnson and cut the total

HUD budget by 25 per cent. Taylor's remarks were prepared for the biennial convention of the United Synagogue of America.

He cited figures showing un-

ment rates in nine core cities are almost 33 per cent, while the national unemployment rate is less than 4 per cent.

Joblessness among Negro teen-agers is 26 per cent, more than six times the over-all rate, Taylor said. Unless these youths can be reached with education and job opportunities, there is little hope they will accept a system that seemingly has no place for them, he said.

Even as unemployment increases in the core cities, Taylor said, "the majority of new jobs today are opening in the suburbs where they are inaccessible to slum dwellers who face housing discrimination and inadequate or no public transportation."

Two persons were reported injured in the fire at School No. 2 in Rensselaer, near Albany.

The cause of the blaze and the loss were not determined immediately. School officials sought classroom space in other buildings for nearly 400 pupils in kindergarten through the sixth grade who attend the school. The building also housed a library.

The two-story, frame infirmary at Manlius Military Academy appeared to be "a total loss," Army Brig. Gen. James K. Wilson (Ret.), school president, said. No one was reported injured.

Wilson said a dormitory would be used temporarily as an infirmary. The school has an enrollment of about 325 cadets.

200 Biafrans Killed
LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — At least 200 Biafrans were killed in a futile attempt to retake Enugu, their capital, from federal forces, Nigerian army sources say.

The rebels in East Nigeria opened up on the occupying federal troops with mortars and artillery over the weekend but could not oust the federal soldiers who captured Enugu Oct. 4.

Biafra Radio said Monday that 12 civilians were killed and 20 others wounded in three days of bombing and strafing by federal jets. The Nigerian government admits planes are operating in the area but did not confirm the bombing and strafing account.

$5,500 Verdict
In a negligence action brought in Supreme Court by Gwendolyn L. Myer and her husband against Anthony Riggi, the jury returned a verdict of $3,000 for Mrs. Myer and $2,500 for her husband. Michael Nardone appeared for plaintiffs and Larkin and Vogt for defendant.

2 Upstate Fires Raze Historic School Buildings

A 71-year-old public school building in Rensselaer and an infirmary at the century-old Manlius Military Academy outside Syracuse were destroyed by fire Monday.

Leader Session Set Tonight by Scout Council

Donald Barnett, assistant national director of training for the Boy Scouts of America, will conduct a special leader training clinic for the Rip Van Winkle Boy Scout Council tonight in Kingston.

The clinic, open to Scouters interested in the training field, will be conducted at the Central Hudson Auditorium on Broadway, Kingston, starting at 8 o'clock.

Arrangements for the clinic were made by Dr. Clement Angstrom, chairman of the Rip Van Winkle Council Leadership Training Committee.

Barnett is in charge of Boy Scout leadership training for Region I, taking in New England, and Region II, comprising New York, New Jersey, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Breakin Nets 40 Cents
Kingston State Police today investigated a burglary at the Leon Wilber & Sons, Inc., fuel dealers, 636 Albany Avenue Extension, which netted the intruder 40 cents and a fire extinguisher, according to Sergeant Donald Paulsen. The break-in which occurred sometime Sunday night, is being investigated by Senior B.C.I. Investigator Charles Taelion. The establishment was entered by forcing a sliding side door.

Dear Abby

Pray That He Gets Wise

By Abigail Van Buren
(© 1967 by Chicago Tribune - N. Y. New Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My son, who is in the service, is engaged to a girl he has been going with for over a year. He's home on leave now, and his girl has been at our house night and day. The only meal she doesn't have here is breakfast. There are seven of us in the family. This girl never once has offered to help clear the table or help me with the dishes. After she eats she goes right into the living room and sits down. If one of the younger children ask her to play with them, she says, "I don't feel like it." She comments on items in my home as follows: "My mother has one just like it, only hers is more expensive. Or bigger, or newer."

My son will be getting another leave soon, then I'll have to wait on her hand and foot again. She never says thank you for anything. I haven't said anything to her as yet because I do not want to hurt my son, but am I wrong in keeping still?

CONCERNED MOTHER: DEAR MOTHER: What is there to say? The girl is obviously ill-trained, ill-mannered and unperceptive. Since she is a guest in your home, you can't very well ask her to "help" you. If your son has chosen her to be his wife, and is blind to her deficiencies, she is going to be HIS problem. Pray that he gets wise before it's too late.

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law is so superstitious it isn't even funny. I don't mind if she believes in all those crazy superstitions, but now she's starting in on me.

I have been married for four years and am expecting my first baby in two months, and this crepe-hanger mother-in-law of mine keeps insisting that it is "bad luck" to buy even a rattle for a baby until it gets here, because "something might happen."

I am furious, Abby. Some of my friends want to have a shower for me, but with all this silly superstitious talk, how can I let them?

I am healthy as a horse and would like to prepare for my baby, but I hate to go behind my mother-in-law's back.

What should I do? FURIOUS DEAR FURIOUS: Tell your mother-in-law that YOU aren't superstitious, and you prefer to be prepared for the baby you have. Then go ahead and prepare and good luck.

DEAR ABBY: To the mother who objected because her husband kissed their 14-year-old son on the mouth, I say, "SHAME!" Our world is full of germs and disease, but the worse disease of all is hate.

A father who loves his son enough to plant a smacker on his lips is, in my opinion, a kind and loving father.

Our youngest son is 21. He was on the aircraft carrier FORRESTAL when it caught fire in Tonkin Bay. And when he came home alive and safe, believe me, his father and I greeted him with more than a handshake. We took him in our arms and kissed him on the MOUTH. If there were any germs around, the love must have killed them all. Sincerely yours,

MOTHER AND DAD

DEAR ABBY: I know several young snips like that babysitter who left a note "CLEAN UP YOUR FILTHY HOUSE, PLEASE."

I pay a sitter to sit, not to judge my housekeeping. I once hired a cleaning woman who came in, looked around and walked out. So even cleaning women want you to clean up your house before they get there.

ALSO MESSY: Problems? Write to Abby, BOX 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Horoscope By SYDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars—

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

Forecast for Wednesday, Nov. 15, 1967

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Communication received concerning money. Best to wait for additional facts. Some may try to rush you. Wise course sees you observing, listening. But hold off on final decision.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Cycle high. Means circumstances turn in your favor. Keep communication lines open with mate, partner. Important to straighten out any misunderstanding at home. Check call from attorney.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Talking with fellow worker produces constructive results. Make motives, intentions crystal clear. Overcome tendency for others to misunderstand. Be sympathetic but firm. Stand tall.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Friends aid in getting something you need. Speak up. Don't be shy about requirements. Older person with authority is on your side. Know this. Respond accordingly.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Message concerning job, career appears to highlight day. Fine for expanding sphere of interest. Prestige goes up in proportion to effort put forth. Finish what you start.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): What you desire may appear faraway. But it actually is within reach. Key is to exercise independence. Be original. Don't play follow the leader. Set your own pace.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Check valuables. Tendency exists to be careless where possessions are concerned. Hunch is apt to be accurate. You teach and learn. Knowledge now adds to profit.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Emphasis on how you express yourself. Don't attempt to say or write too much at once. Timing, pacing is important. Permit mate or partner to take initiative.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov.-Dec. 21): If specific, you get results. Means don't hold back in making requests. Get the best outlining reasons. Be analytical. Others desire chance to be of aid. Inspire confidence.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Stress today on your romantic nature. Emotional reactions take lead from logic. Key is to obtain balance. Changes due. Control them. Make differences work to your advantage.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Indications today point to decision affecting residence, home, real estate. Domestic adjustment appears a necessity. Don't compound past mistakes. Take corrective measures.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Action in travel areas. Same applies to communication. Day to find things out, gather information. Don't be satisfied with half-truths. Get complete story.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are sympathetic to needs of others and often people take advantage of this fact. You are due for break in routine which could involve travel. If single, marriage appears on horizon.

Frank, Ella Two Real Pros

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The

pros, Frank Sinatra and Ella

from "The Lady is a Tramp" to

"Ode to Billy Joe," resulted

hour of musical entertainment.

Sinatra, it appeared, was in

lent voice. He even took on "Old Man River" as a solo. Miss

seems a bit uncomfortable be-

and relaxed, and, vocally, a match for the star of the NBC

special.

Some Awkward Moments

ward moments when the singers are between songs or climbing

on stools and finding it necessary to exchange a little banter.

sons from his clansman, Dean

Martin, who really handles it

The pace and the physical attractiveness of the show matched Sinatra's special of last season, but did not approach in quality and interest

seasons back.

Earlier there was NBC's annual hour of excerpts from the "Ice Follies." To the amateur eye, one ice show looks pretty much like any other except that the girl skaters wear different costumes and the clowns have slightly different stunts.

Ed Ames Excels

Ed Ames of "Daniel Boone" introduced the acts and was a standout as a host because he neither tried to make jokes nor do any wobbly skating. He did, however, sing in his rich attractive baritone. Portions of the songs were not as effective as they might have been because the synchronization of his lips to

quite perfect.

ABC has decided, after all, to drop its new western series,

"Hondo" after the Dec. 29 show.

It will be replaced the following Friday with a new series, "ABC's Operation...Enteertainment," "Hondo," spun off a

John Wayne movie, suffered from low ratings.

"ABC's Operation...Enteertainment" will consist of variety shows taped before audiences of

shot earlier this month before some Marines at Camp Pendleton, Calif. Various show business personalities will serve as one-shot hosts.

Jennings to Roam

Still another change comes on

New Year's Day when Bob

Young, now an ABC correspondent in London, takes over Peter

early news show. Jennings, who

spondent.

In May, when Howard K.

Smith returns from a leave during which he was working on a book, he will join Young as the show's Washington anchorman.

Recommended tonight: "The Jerry Lewis Show," NBC, 8-9

EST, with Audrey Meadows and

and Clyde." "Eric Hoffer: The Passionate State of Mind," CBS,

10-11, rebroadcast of a conversation with the writer and former longshoreman.

Frank, Ella Two Real Pros

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The combination of a couple of real pros, Frank Sinatra and Ella Fitzgerald, singing everything from "The Lady is a Tramp" to "Ode to Billy Joe" resulted Monday night in a mighty fine hour of musical entertainment.

Sinatra, it appeared, was in high good humor and in excellent voice. He even took on "Old Man River" as a solo. Miss Fitzgerald, who sometimes seems a bit uncomfortable before the cameras, was at ease and relaxed and, vocally, a match for the star of the NBC special.

Some Awkward Moments
The program suffered, as so many of them do, in those awkward moments when the singers are between songs or climbing on stools and finding it necessary to exchange a little banter. The conversation is usually pretty stiff and silly. Sinatra

The pace and the physical attractiveness of the show matched Sinatra's special of last season, but did not approach in quality and interest his exceptional program of two seasons back.

Earlier there was NBC's annual hour of excerpts from the "Ice Follies." To the amateur eye, one ice show looks pretty much like any other except that the girl skaters wear different costumes and the clowns have slightly different stunts.

Ed Ames Excels
Ed Ames of "Daniel Boone" introduced the acts and was a standout as a host because he neither tried to make jokes nor do any wobbly skating. He did, however, sing in his rich attractive baritone. Portions of the songs were not as effective as they might have been because the synchronization of his lips to the pre-recorded song was not quite perfect.

ABC has decided, after all, to drop its new western series, "Hondo" after the Dec. 29 show. It will be replaced the following Friday with a new series, "ABC's Operation...Entertainment." "Hondo," spun off a John Wayne movie, suffered from low ratings.

"ABC's Operation...Entertainment" will consist of variety shows taped before audiences of servicemen. The pilot show was shot earlier this month before some Marines at Camp Pendleton, Calif. Various show business personalities will serve as one-shot hosts.

Jennings to Roam
Still another change comes on New Year's Day when Bob

Young, now an ABC correspondent in London, takes over Peter Jennings spot on the network's early news show. Jennings, who wanted to return to reporting, will become a roving correspondent.

In May, when Howard K. Smith returns from a leave during which he was working on a book, he will join Young as the show's Washington anchorman.

Broad Anticrime Plan Due From Rockefeller

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has announced he will submit to the next session of the Legislature a broad anticrime program, including authorization of the use of wiretapping and electronic listening devices.

He says wiretapping and electronic surveillance are "our most effective weapons in combating organized crime." The legislation he wants in this field "will contain the protection of civil liberties" required by the U.S. Supreme Court, he added in outlining his package of proposals Monday night.

Other Proposals

Among other proposals in his program are provisions to tighten gun controls, encourage consolidation of local police forces and add 500 troopers to the state police force which now has about 3,000 men.

Rockefeller described his program in a dinner speech before about 800 business leaders from across the nation who are members of the year-old National Emergency Committee.

The committee, formed to involve businessmen in aspects of anticrime and rehabilitation work, holds an all-day session today with Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate racketeering committee, as a speaker.

The businessmen's committee is a unit of the 60-year-old National Council on Crime and Delinquency, which has branches in 20 states and conducts research and works for improvement of state and local law enforcement agencies.

Rockefeller told the dinner gathering that he will seek legislation "to give New York State the best state firearms control program in the nation." He proposed "uniform statewide registration requirements for the possession and sale of rifles and shotguns."

State law now requires a permit for a pistol or other concealable weapon. Rockefeller said he would seek uniform statewide licensing provisions for pistols, including a requirement for periodic renewal of permits.

For Own Defense

Another proposal by the governor was for amendments to the penal law "broadening the authority for a police officer to use force as is necessary and appropriate to defend himself or apprehend a dangerous criminal, and for the citizen to defend himself or his family." Under the revised penal law, which went into effect Sept. 1, a policeman generally is authorized to use his gun only when he believes a criminal is employing deadly force or is endangering the life of a victim.

Among other proposals were: authorization of a state study into the feasibility of using non-lethal weapons in law enforcement; and a request by the Legislature to Congress for stronger interstate control of the sale and shipment of guns.

Aiken on Administration:

Hits Implication of Treason

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George D. Aiken says President Johnson and administration officials imply Vietnam war policy criticism borders on treason. The Vermont Republican calls it "hitting below the belt."

Aiken, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, took issue with a Monday statement by Ellsworth Bunker, U.S. Ambassador to South Vietnam, that domestic dissent acts to "encourage the North Vietnamese to hold on."

A sharp critic of Johnson's escalation of the U.S. war effort, Aiken said in an interview he detects a pattern in weekend speeches by the President, a New York talk Monday by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and in Bunker's remarks, a pattern of blaming critics for what he called lack of success in Southeast Asia.

"Congress has given the President everything he has asked for to carry on the war in Vietnam," Aiken said. "If the results have not been successful, it would appear to be the judgment of the administration that it is at fault."

"To imply that those who question the judgment of the President may not be wholly loyal to their country would seem to me to be hitting below the belt."

Humphrey said the greatest need at this point in the war is "support by the American people" which "can give a clear, unmistakable signal to our adversary and thereby shorten the war."

"I can tell him (Johnson) how to get unity," Aiken said. "Just let somebody drop bombs on Silver Spring, Md., and Falls Church, Va., and he will get unity. The American people then would feel just about as I imagine the people of Hanoi and Hanoi."

Silver Spring and Falls Church are Washington suburbs.

That viewpoint also was expressed by journalist David Schoenbrun, who said his recent visit to North Vietnam convinced him U.S. bombing of North never will lead to peace talks.

"I've been all through North Vietnam and seen the destruction," Schoenbrun told newsmen in Detroit. "Believe me, those people have very little left to lose. They are willing to fight to the end."

Schoenbrun, a longtime Columbia Broadcasting System newsman who now teaches at Columbia University, said he feels North Vietnam would be willing to begin talks within four weeks after an unconditional halt to U.S. bombing.

Bunker reported to the President on the progress of the war. He's scheduled to brief the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Thursday on developments in South Vietnam.

The committee is expected to clear the same day a resolution to put the Senate on record urging Johnson to take the war issue to the United Nations for a decision.

Bunker told newsmen after the White House conference he reported to Johnson "we are making steady progress in Vietnam" and "there is every sign the progress will accelerate."

Humphrey challenged critics to come up with an alternative course in Vietnam. He said "if you can find it, we will use it."

That's a problem Republicans know their 1968 presidential nominee will face and Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen said he thinks the Republican candidate will have to follow the Johnson administration's fundamental policies, only more so.

"He will have to go further, though," Dirksen said. "He will have to do more than the President is doing," like advocating an expansion of the number of targets for bombing without extending the war itself.

In Miami Beach, persistent war policy critic Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., called the Vietnam struggle "one of history's most god-awful bloodbaths" and said he'd "rather walk out of the Senate than support Johnson's war in Vietnam." He spoke at a news conference.

Two Unyielding Positions Dim Hopes for Mideast

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Unyielding positions taken by Israel and Jordan before the U.N. Security Council Monday have further dimmed hopes of any Middle East settlement soon.

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban made plain that his government is in no hurry to come to terms when he brushed aside two rival resolutions both designed to bring the Arabs nearer than ever before to compromise.

Reiterates Rejection

Eban reiterated his rejection of a resolution submitted by India, Mali and Nigeria because he said it suggested "that Israel should move from the cease-fire lines without a peace treaty defining permanent and secure frontiers."

He said the U.S. resolution failed to "give sufficient weight to the concept of negotiation and agreement." The Israelis are believed willing to accept the U.S. plan in effect, but want it made plain that any solution must stem from direct talks between them and the Arabs.

A similar inflexibility was shown by Jordan's foreign minister, Abdul Monef Rifa'i, despite the softer tone of King Hussein's public statements in the United States last week.

Rifa'i stressed Arab demands for Israeli withdrawal from territory seized in the June war. If the United Nations fails to act, he warned, "we will have to return to our people" and advise them to take action needed "to liquidate this Israeli aggression."

Played Up Too Much

Rifa'i charged that the real source of instability in the Middle East is what he called Israel's "record of expansionist policies and repeated organized attacks against Arab countries."
